Asiatic Virus Is Knockin'

Asiatic influenza is on the way along the highways frequented by viruses, and the government is trying both to calm fears and arouse concern.

At the back of the scientific mind lies always the fact that man cannot peer into the mind of a virus and know, for sure, what it intends. The men whose duty it is to guard our national health do not think this strain of respiratory infection will be too serious.
They point out that since it appeared some months ago it has killed relatively few persons. For the most part it causes four or five days of fever, upset stomachs and a very uncomfortable feeling.

So, they say, "Don't become panicky."

But they also remember, being scientists, that in summer months the influenza virus rarely gives too much trouble. There was no reason to panic. The Spanish virus of 1918 first made its appearance in the summer. It did little harm, killing off a few of the weak and ill-nourished, and making the others uncomfortable.

A Killer

But when it returned in the winter it came as a killer. It ravaged the Army camps. It brought death to several hundreds of thousands of people over the world.
In the United States people died,
as the saying goes, "like flies."
Whole communities were in desperate condition. Doctors were unable to cope with it. Hospitals were jammed.

Spanish influenza swept through Army camps and ships at sea like the black plague. In those days it still was the custom to have a hand march to the railway station with the caskets. The musicians marched in slow time and the music was one of the classic funeral marches. It soon became impossible for the bands to perform, so great was the death list.
Travelers became used to great stacks of flag-draped pine boxes at the railway stations.

In the Army camps the men feared the hospital. Spanish influenza began with fever and aching bones. Many cases, after about four days, developed pneumonia. There were, in those days, no drugs to make that dread disease depart. Pneumonia was known as the old man's friend. But it slaughtered children and the middle-aged with equal callousness.

Army hospitals were not well equipped. There were, in 1917-19, few nurses and few doctors.
Military men put off going to the doctor as long as possible.
Hence, many of those who did report to the hospitals had well-developed cases of pneumonia before they went. So many died in hospitals that men began to believe that to turn one's self over to Army medics was to die.

Sad Memory

One of my most vivid and sad recollections is sitting up in bed when reveille "went" and beginning to dress hurriedly in an arctic-like barracks. Nothing my friend in the cot pulled next to mine had not stirred, I reached over and shook him. He was dead. It became my job to meet his widow at the train and bring her to the officer in charge.
Others went to the hospital and died.

In that time the techniques of making vaccines were not well advanced. Today they are.
But influenza is tricky. We have a number of vaccines which will provide immunity for specific strains. But the scientists tell us that "mutations" occur. A vaccine which will make one strain of virus curl up and die will be entirely ineffective against a new one.

The great pharmaceutical houses are busy making vaccine for Asiatic flu. They have taken the virus from infected persons and discovered how to nullify it.
But the Army, quite properly, will get the first million or so shots. Then will come the civilians. There is plenty of time.
It won't be bad in summer.
Maybe it won't be a rugged killer in winter. The point is, there is an adequate period in which to make ready.
What the public health people very much wish to do is to make the 160 millions of Americans aware that common sense is indicated. There is no need for alarm. Pneumonia no longer is a threat. But there is every reason to make sure, before Oct.
1, that you and your family get a protective shot from the public clinics or private physicians.

Batista Slaps Iron Hand Over Cuba

All Civil Laws Are Suspended

HAVANA, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Batista's government imposed ironclad military rule over the Cuban people today to combat rebellion. The action followed Ba-tista's suspension of constitutional guarantees throughout Cuba.

The government quickly seized the rebel hotbed city of Santiago, in extreme eastern Cuba, with a deployment of armed forces.

Santiago was the scene of a rebel demonstration yesterday that got the new U.S. Ambassador to Cuba, Earl E. T. Smith embroiled with Cuban government officials.

Some high officials and politicians accused Smith of meddling in Cuban affairs when he commented on the rebellion after watching the Santiago demonstration. It apparently was staged especially for him.

Smith spoke of political uncertainty and bloodshed, expressed sympathy for women arrested at Santiago and was quoted in the Communications Ministry as saying, "Any form of excessive police action is repugnant to me."

The Santiago police had used fire hoses to disperse some women demonstrators.

Santiago streets were nearly deserted tonight except for armed forces. A few buses escorted by soldiers still operated. Theaters were closed.

A cafe-cabaret near Santiago that had remained open was damaged by gunfire and hand grenades hurled from two automobiles.

Havana appeared to be having a calm night.
The government's seizure of arbitrary power was linked directly to the rebellion.

Quart of Milk To Rise a Cent To Old Price

The penny a quart skimmed off the price of milk July 1 will be added again Sept. 1.

The increase was announced Thursday by Charles Duncan, chairman of the Georgia Milk Commission.

He said the change was brought about by the cost of feed, the same factor which caused the reduction a month ago.

Feed cost is one of the factors in a formula used to figure the price of milk, Duncan said. He explained that feed is more abundant in the summer months.

The added penny will bring milk prices back to 26 cents a quart.

Only six other market areas in the nation reduced prices during the summer months, Duncan said.

$100,000 Fire Sweeps Peachtree Motor Firm

A spectacular fire swept the Peachtree Motor Exchange, 330 Peachtree St., N.W., shortly before midnight Thursday. Three alarms were sounded within minutes of each other.

The fire raged virtually unchecked through the two-story brick structure near the intersection of Ivy and Peachtree streets, Northeast.

Police Capt. J. O. Moseley said flames that rose high into the air were visible on Decatur street. After viewing the scene, he said, "Damage apparently will be at least $100,000."

Cause of the blaze was not determined, according to Lt. Roy Parker, fire investigator, who entered the building when firemen first arrived. He said the blaze started midway of the building and swept toward the rear.

Heavy black smoke hung over the area. Fumes from burning rubber were also noticeable. Traffic was snarled as crowds gathered.

The fire for a time threatened the adjoining regional office of Sherwin-Williams Co. at 320 Peachtree St., N.W. A vacant lot stands on the other adjoining side.

Firemen battled the flames from aerial and other ladders.
The emergency light truck of the fire department was also called into play, brightening the already flame-lighted scene.

No one was injured.
At one point, firemen played three streams of water on a smoldering door in the rear of the building, but the door burst open.

It's 97 in Atlanta for a 1957 Record; 2 Scorchers in High 90s Forecast

Sweltering citizens who thought Thursday's 97-degree heat was Atlanta's hottest of the year were not wrong, the weatherman affirmed as he warned of more of the sizzling same for Friday and Saturday.

The 97 high surpassed previous 1957 peak readings by three degrees, Atlanta Weather Bureau forecaster Harry Armstrong said. The previous maximum of 94 was recorded June 16 and July 9, 13, 16 and 23, he said.

In fact, the Thursday scorcher was the hottest to bake Atlanta in almost a year, Armstrong said, stretching back to 98 on Aug. 6, 1956.

Armstrong said the 97 peak was eight degrees above the
Aug. 1 maximum temperature average of previous years.
Clear to partly cloudy skies, accompanied by widely scattered showers, is the official forecast for Friday and Saturday.

Extreme temperatures of 72 and 97 are expected both days, Armstrong said, repeating the high and low recorded in Atlanta Thursday.

Despite the 97-degree scorcher, Armstrong said, Atlantans are getting sultry temperatures that are about on a par with those of past summers.

George Loses Ground; Chance for Rally Dims

By CELESTINE SIBLEY
Constitution Staff Writer

VIENNA, Aug. 1 (AP)—Former U.S. Sen. Walter F.
George was gradually getting weaker and "losing ground fast," his physicians reported at 11 p.m. Thursday.

"I don't see how he's going to make it," Dr. M. L. Malloy, his family physician, said after spending several hours at George's bedside. "His chance of surviving seems to be very slight."

Sen. George's condition was described as getting "progressively worse" early Thursday morning.

By late afternoon the 79-year-old former U.S. senator, who is now special presidential envoy to NATO, was "not appreciably weaker," physicians said, but had taken no nourishment except a few sips of water and glucose given intravenously.

"The senator is conscious and is able to answer questions and to talk," Dr. Malloy said, "but he is under some sedation and, of course, a little hazy."

Sen. George was not strong enough to be moved from his bed to his reclining chair all day, Dr. Malloy said. He said the senator "had slept some," and had received oxygen intermittently.

Dr. J. Willis Hurst, chief of the Emory Hospital's department of medicine and a heart specialist, continued at George's bedside and Dr. Malloy, the family physician for 25 years, visited the senator several times during the day.

Sen. George had a coronary occlusion.

The senator's former secretary, Mrs. Christie Kennedy Meade of Greenville, S.C., arrived at the George home and spent the day with a few other close friends of the family who are receiving messages and callers at the little white frame house.

Visitors reported that the senator's wife, "Miss Lucy," who stoutly opposes hearing his condition called "critical," seemed in good spirits and said she had rested well the night before.

There may be other animals in the section that have not yet discovered, he warned. The outbreak emphasizes the incubation period of rabies which may run several months, he added.

Starr said a case of rabies in a pony kept in the city is highly unusual although his department receives three or four reports a year of rabid horses from throughout the state.

MOSCOW, Friday, Aug. 2 (AP)— Moscow police arrested more than a dozen young Russians outside the Kremlin walls early today. They were accused of being too rowdy in celebrating Moscow's Youth Festival which has attracted many foreigners.

The arrested youths were part of a crowd of several hundred Russians milling around Man-ezhny Square buttonholing festival delegates, teasing the militia police and refusing to disperse on their orders.

Similar crowds have been swarming into the city's many squares and blocking traffic until early hours every morning since the festival began last Sunday.

Lester Washburn, head of the old AFL-United Auto Workers from 1943 to 1954, also told a Senate Rackets Committee he tried to get Dubinsky's help in throwing Dio out of the UAW.

Dubinsky is president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and has been considered in the forefront of efforts to boot criminals and Communists from organized labor.

Reporters intercepted him at an Ethical Practices Committee meeting and asked whether he had known that Dio worked for the ILGWU.

"I will not engage in a debate with Washburn," the labor leader replied. "If the (Senate) committee thinks my testimony is important, I will be glad to testify."

The special Senate committee investigating improper labor-management practices has just that in mind.

Apart from the Dubinsky angle, Washburn also told the committee Dio was closely associated with James R. Hoffa, the man who now has the inside track to succeed Dave Beck as president of the Teamsters Union.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) wanted to know what advantage Hoffa would get from "joining up with these creaky characters of the underground."

U.S., Canada Form Joint Air Defense

New Command Based in Colorado

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—The United States and Canada announced plans today to integrate air defense operations and planning for North America.

Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander of U.S. Continental Air Defense Command, will head the new joint staff. His deputy will be Air Marshal C. Roy Ste-mon, now chief of the air staff at the Royal Canadian Air College.

Headquarters for the new planning and operations body will be at Colorado Springs, Colo., which is also headquarters for Partridge's U.S. command.

The plans were made known in a joint statement by Secretary of Defense Wilson and George R. Pearkes, Canadian minister of national defense. It described the action as "a further step" in the integration of the air defense forces of the two neighboring countries.

"The two governments have agreed to the setting up of an integrated operational control of the air defense forces in the continental United States, Alaska and Canada under an integrated

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Senate put aside the civil rights bill long enough today to give final congressional approval to two big money bills representing about half of President Eisenhower's new record peacetime budget.

It gave belated approval to compromise measures carrying $33-759,850,000 to run the Defense Department in the current 12 months and $3,666,543,747 to operate the Agriculture Department and its farm programs.

Between these two votes, the Senate also sent the foreign aid authorization bill to a joint conference committee to thresh out differences between the $3,117-000,000 House measure and the $3,637,000,000 Senate version.

The actions came only a few hours after the White House had issued a special statement warning that the government's civilian and military payrolls for August were in jeopardy. Passage of the defense measure was accompanied by Democratic charges of penny-pinching.

Still in doubt was the fate of a resolution to permit other agencies—including the Atomic Energy Commission and Reclamation Bureau—to continue spending at present rates. The House has approved the resolution but it is backed up behind civil rights in the Senate.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), who previously had blocked Senate ac-supported the defense and farm money bills. He said he would continue to negotiate the establishment of a new defense bill.

West Drafts Plan for Arms Inspections

By DREW MIDDLETON
(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

LONDON, Aug. 1—After a day of intensive diplomatic discussion the western powers are ready to present to the Soviet Union their proposals for aerial and ground inspection to safeguard the world against surprise attacks.

Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Pineau completed their discussions this afternoon. According to authoritative U.S. sources, they agreed upon the substance of the western proposals.

The Soviet Union will be asked to accept both aerial and ground inspection. It won't be offered a choice between the two systems.
Similarly, if the Soviet Union accepts the plan for an Arctic zone of inspection it must also be prepared to negotiate the establishment of a new defense bill.

McClellan (D-Ark.) said today Teamsters' Union money apparently paid for the trip, ex-boxer last month when Louis showed up at James R. Hoffa's trial.

Louis, a Negro and former

McClellan said: "The commit-

Senate Vote Is Stinging Loss for Ike

12 Republicans Help Put It Over

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—Southerners pushed the hotly disputed jury trial amendment through the Senate, 51-42, early this morning, handing President Eisenhower a stinging defeat.

The smashing victory for the South came shortly after midnight. It probably set the stage for passage of a sharply watered-down civil rights bill, perhaps as early as next week. The concessions won by the Dixie senators have been much greater than they expected at the outset.

PARTIES SHAKEN UP
Twelve Republicans joined 39 Democrats in voting for the amendment.

Thirty-three Republicans and nine Democrats voted against the amendment.

The adoption of this amendment, sponsored by Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Church (D-Idaho), guarantees jury trial in all federal criminal contempt cases.

Wilson Slaps Limit On Military Funds

Present Rate of Spending Must Be Reduced, He Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said today he has slapped an airtight 38-billion-dollar spending limit on the military services and added that more cuts are coming.

Noting that the services were spending at an annual rate of $40,200,000,000 in the first six months of this year, Wilson told a news conference that the "bad news is not all out yet."

"I won't approve anything that would raise defense costs one dollar in the frame of mind I'm in now," Wilson said.

The defense secretary, who just turned 67, also said he had discussed a possible successor to his job. But he said flatly that no date has been set for him to leave the Cabinet post he has occupied since the Eisenhower administration took over in 1953.

STAY ON TEAM

Wilson made clear he will remain on the Eisenhower "team."

Priests Held By Reds as Rebel Aides

BUDAPEST, Aug. 1 (AP)—A group of Roman Catholic priests was accused by Hungary's Communist government today of aiding the rebels in last fall's tragic revolt. The government said all are under arrest and will be brought to trial soon.

The Interior Ministry issued a statement detailing the charges against this "major group of counterrevolutionary priests," but did not name them all or say exactly how many are in the group. Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, who is still in asylum in the U. S. legation in Budapest after being released from a life prison term by the rebels, was accused in one instance.

UNDER ARREST

This involved his secretary, the Rev. Albert Egon Tursanyi, who has been reported under arrest previously. The ministry charged Cardinal Mindszenty instructed the priests to loot the government's religious affairs office during last fall's anti-Russian revolt. Then, said the ministry, they shipped secret documents from the office to the cardinal. Father Tursanyi, the statement charged, "took part in the looting at the head of an armed group."

The present Hungarian Catholic hierarchy, headed by Archbishop Josef Groesz, has formed an organization called "Opus Pacis"—the Work of Peace—to cooperate with the Communists' "peace movement." Thus the ministry's announcement today said that only some church leaders were aware of the accused priests' "large-scale organization and counterrevolutionary activities." But the government did not say which ones they were.

Other charges against the "counterrevolutionary" priests include:

PROPAGANDA MATERIAL. Printing and distributing "large quantities of leaflets and propaganda material" in centers of the uprising.

Maintaining close contact with the Freedom Fighters, conducting "personal agitation among them," supplying them with food and helping them to hide out after the revolt was crushed by Soviet tanks.

Others arrested were Pal Lieszkovsky, identified as a lieutenant colonel under Adm. Nicholas Horvath; Fathers Imre Vargu and Antal Kukla, Istvan Tabodi, a fourth year theology student, and "several other priests."

First Cavalry Rolls Out of Japan; Last Division for U.S. Occupation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Withdrawal of the last American division from Japan is now under way.

The Defense Department announced today the departure from Japan of the 1st Cavalry Division. This was one of the first major units to arrive of the original army of occupation nearly 12 years ago, and is the last to leave.

The remaining men and equipment of the now understrength division will be absorbed by other units elsewhere. But its proud name, traditions and battle-honored flag are moving to Korea. There, the 1st Cavalry will take over the men and equipment of the 24th Division. The 24th will then be dropped from the Army's order of battle.

In Korea, the transformed 1st Cavalry, which has been an infantry division for many years, will be commanded by Maj. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, who was once castigated by the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) as a man unfit to wear a general's uniform. The Pentagon said the departure of the 1st Cavalry from Japan carries out the assurance made by President Eisenhower to Japanese Prime Minister Kishi in June that all U. S. ground forces would be withdrawn within the year.

Completion of the ground force withdrawal will be announced within a few weeks. It will send the 9th Regiment of the 3rd Marine Division from Japan to Okinawa. The 3rd Division headquarters and its 3rd Regiment are already stationed on Okinawa. The division's 4th Regiment is in Hawaii, where it is scheduled to remain.

The departure of the 1st Cavalry will leave in Japan several Air Force wings, the 3rd Marine Air Wing and a handful of Army troops who will act as housekeepers and caretakers. The total number of American servicemen remaining in Japan will be about 17,000.

U. S. Army strength in Korea will remain about the same after the move from Japan. The 7th Infantry Division is already there and will remain with the 1st Cavalry to man the American section of the Korean armistice line.

On June 21, President Eisenhower promised the visiting Japanese Prime Minister that the total number of U. S. forces in Japan "will be substantially reduced within the next year," and that all ground combat forces would depart. The Defense Department has yet to spell out reductions in other than Army forces in that country.

The army of occupation that Gen. Douglas MacArthur led to Japan in the early fall of 1945 reached a maximum strength of nearly 300,000. But on the eve of the outbreak of hostilities in Korea in June 1950, that powerful army had been whittled down to four divisions, all undermanned, totaling less than 100,000 men.

The two American divisions that will remain in Korea compared with the eight Army divisions and two Marine divisions that saw service in the Far East during the Korean hostilities, when U. S. military manpower reached a maximum of more than 510,000.

The dropping of the 24th division from the active list will leave the Army with 17 divisions, two in Korea, five in Europe and the remainder on the American continent and in Hawaii.

The army of occupation that Gen. Douglas MacArthur led to Japan in the early fall of 1945 reached a maximum strength of nearly 300,000. But on the eve of the outbreak of hostilities in Korea in June 1950, that powerful army had been whittled down to four divisions, all undermanned, totaling less than 100,000 men.

The two American divisions that will remain in Korea compared with the eight Army divisions and two Marine divisions that saw service in the Far East during the Korean hostilities, when U. S. military manpower reached a maximum of more than 510,000.

The dropping of the 24th division from the active list will leave the Army with 17 divisions, two in Korea, five in Europe and the remainder on the American continent and in Hawaii.

POSTMEN PRAY FOR RAISE — MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—More than 1,000 Minneapolis postal workers bow their heads on the post office steps Thursday as three church leaders lead them in prayer seeking divine guidance of the government in handling their plea for a pay raise. Like other governmental employees, postmen are prohibited from striking. The House has passed a pay increase but action has been delayed in the Senate and a presidential veto is feared likely. In Mobile, 190 postmen also prayed.

British Women Can Equal or Better Marilyn Monroe, Figures Disclose

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Her Majesty's Stationery Office disclosed today that 45,000 British women have figures like Marilyn Monroe's.

The statistics were designed to help clothing manufacturers provide better fitting clothes. They indicated that British women should be anything but ashamed of their shapes. The council took the measurements of 5,000 women. Statisticians converted the figures into algebraic equations which turned out to equal a wolf-whistling average.

The report published by the stationery office said that "Miss Britain 1957" averaged out at 35-25-37½ from bust to hips. That makes her slimmer than Venus de Milo, about two inches bigger in the waist and hips than Miss Monroe and considerably more pudgy than Gina Lollobrigida.

Carolinan Calls Ike's Hand And Offers Him a Million

RALEIGH, N.C., Aug. 1 (AP)—Raleigh businessman Kidd Brewer today took President Eisenhower up on his offer to sell his assets for a million dollars.

Brewer, 49, former Duke University athlete who ran unsuccessfully for lieutenant governor last year, sent this telegram to the president:

"I represent a group interested in making a definite offer of a million dollars for your personal holdings, including assets held in trust referred to at your press conference yesterday. Am prepared to make a good faith deposit at once. Request conference at your earliest convenience."

NO JOKING MATTER

Brewer, who attracted headlines with his unorthodox methods of campaigning in the race for lieutenant governor, insisted that "It's a serious offer" and "is not a joking matter." He said he was "not at liberty to divulge" the names of his backers at the present.

At his news conference yesterday, President Eisenhower was asked about news articles which estimated that the President's holdings are worth a million dollars.

The President answered, "If that man who knows so much about my business will offer me a million dollars to sell out, he is going to make a sale in a hurry."

DREW HEADLINES

Brewer attracted headlines in the race for lieutenant governor after once withdrawing from the race because of a heart attack. In the closing days of the campaign he re-entered the race and set up headquarters in a glass-sided truck parked at the state Capitol.

Brewer, insisting that his offer was serious, said, "the folks I represent are very much interested, and they think it would be a profitable deal if it can be done."

Hoffa Maps a U.S. Council For All Transport Unions

By LAWRENCE E. DAVIES

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—The blueprint for an all-embracing council of American transport unions—air, land and sea—was sketched today by the man who expects to succeed Dave Beck as president of the Teamsters' Brotherhood.

James R. Hoffa said if he stepped into the Teamsters' top post, as he expects to do this fall, he would ask for immediate discussion among international unions in the transport field looking to a type of federation for joint action.

"You cannot have a one-city strike any more, or a strike in just one kind of transportation," he said. "You have to strike them all."

The Detroit labor official, a Teamsters vice president and president of the Central Conference of Teamsters, made his comments before the union's constitution committee began a two-day meeting here.

GETS SUBPOENA

Several hours earlier he had been served with a subpoena demanding his presence in Washington on Aug. 13 before the Senate Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field. He is to be questioned about racketeering in New York. He could not foresee any action by the committee that would jeopardize his chances of election to the Teamsters' presidency at the Miami Beach convention at the end of September.

Hoffa claimed the support of about 75 per cent of the union's membership. He received the backing of Midwest, Eastern and Southern Teamsters at a Chicago meeting last Friday and said at least 70 Western locals had pledged him their support.

He told reporters that the proposed transport council, as he envisioned it, would include unions in aviation, railroading, trucking and shipping. It would operate within the framework of the AFL-CIO, he said.

PIGGYBACK METHOD

"We would start with the railroads and trucks because of the new piggyback method of shipping loaded trucks on freight cars," he went on. "In the Central Conference we have a working agreement with the railroad brotherhoods."

Hoffa said he favored discussion among international unions "both within and without the AFLO-CIO." He was asked specifically whether these would include the International Longshoremen's Assn. of the East Coast, which was ousted from the AFL in 1953 as gangster-dominated, and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union here on the West Coast, which was kicked out of the CIO in 1950 as Communist-dominated.

Hoffa said affiliation of the council with the AFL-CIO would prohibit taking them in.

Leaflets were to be dropped on rebel mountain strongholds warning them of forthcoming assaults by ground forces.

(In Cairo, a spokesman for the Imam claimed a victory over the Sultan's troops. Sheikh Mohammed El Harithy said he received an "urgent message" that rebel forces killed 55 of the Sultan's men in a clash near Irbil.

(A brother of the Sultan was captured along with quantities of British equipment. El Harithy claimed. His report was the first of actual ground fighting in the two-week-old Oman crisis.)

A British spokesman in Bahrain shrugged off the claims of the Imam's Cairo spokesman as "mainly invention."

He refused to give details of the planned ground operation. The British command has ordered a strict blackout on the military operation against the rebels in the broiling uplands.

Graham Labels the Cross An Offense to Christians

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham told 19,000 persons in Madison Square Garden tonight that the Cross of Christ is an offense to every true Christian.

"The Cross is used as a symbol, as an ornament worn around the neck sentimentally, but the Bible teaches that the Cross was an offense," said Graham to the capacity audience.

"The apostle Paul found the Cross an offense and a stumbling block—so it must always be to every true follower of Jesus," said Graham.

He said Paul found the Cross an offense in four main particulars. He listed these as:

"Because it shows man's sin compared to the purity of Christ. The Cross has come down through the centuries passing its judgment on hate, lust, and pride.

"Because the blood was shed there.

"Because it sets forth the imperative ideal of life. The great neglect here in New York is seen in the slum areas, the growing race problem and the gang warfare. . . . All proving that there is an avoidance of the stringent demands of the Christian life.

"Finally, the Cross is an offense because it claims to be the power of God unto salvation. It humbles us, it demands much of us, and it condemns any other way to salvation."

At Graham's invitation to "come to the foot of the Cross" as a sign of acceptance of Christ, 490 persons came forward.

Graham took his sermon texts from Isaiah 53:3 and Galatians 5:11.

'Mamie Park' Dedicated by First Lady

DENVER, Aug. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower thanked Denver today for naming one of her favorite picnic spots in her honor. "This is a wonderful, wonderful honor," said the smiling First Lady. "All my love to you and my thanks for naming this park for me."

"I hope in years to come mothers will say to their children, 'Now hurry up and run along and play in Mamie Eisenhower's Park.'"

Mayor Will F. Nicholson said, in presenting Mrs. Eisenhower, that she told him earlier she used to drive a horse to the area for picnics.

The half-hour dedication ceremonies for the 21-acre park were held under a blazing sun that pushed the mercury to 93 degrees.

Dedication of the park, slated for completion in 1958, marked Mrs. Eisenhower's first departure from her hotel suite since her arrival for a visit in her home city Monday.

The Great Demand Is for Brainpower

Changes in the U.S. economy, reflected in full measure in Georgia, have been coming so fast that the average citizen loses sight of some of their effects. It is not yet fully appreciated, for instance, that the most urgent need in the country today is for brainpower—not muscle power.

The U.S. Department of Labor has reported that this year the white-collar group as a whole reached a historic turning point—it became the biggest single segment of the labor force, outnumbering the blue-collar workers for the first time. White-collar workers now number about 25 million and the figure is increasing rapidly.

We are thus witnessing a massive upgrading of the skills required in the U.S. labor force. The manpower problem becomes one of developing more people capable of exercising intelligence, judgment and imagination.

The growth of automation has made obsolete many of the jobs of humans who in their work resembled machines. The demand now is for scientists, for engineers to translate their ideas into production, for managers to organize the production process, for salesmen, sales girls, record keepers, researchers and teachers.

U.S. industry uses between five and 10 times as many college-trained men today as a decade ago and the supply still is short. The growing demand for brains is not temporary but is corollary to the developing American system.

Industry thus is looking into all social groups to find the men with qualities of intelligence to do the things which machines cannot do. The result is a steady growth of the middle class and a vast upgrading of median incomes. America is still the land of opportunity.

What is true for the nation as a whole is also true in Georgia. Everywhere the pressure is on the schools to supply the brains and skills necessary to meet the changing needs of the economy. This, of course, could mean a deterioration in quality of college and professionally trained people. The need for teachers and competition of industry for their talents complicate the problem.

But the whole fantastic picture points to a continued rise in living standards—if the above challenges can be met—and the progressive eradication of poverty from the land. The major obstacle is the human factor—how to provide the skills and man the distribution system for an unprecedented age of plenty.

Traffic Death Reduction Due to State Troopers

A reduction of 42 traffic deaths over a six months' period for the entire state could mean that many automobiles more or less missed collision by a narrow margin call fate.

A 42-death reduction in one sector of the state assigned to the State Patrol is significant.

That gain against murder on the roads has been scored in the Southwest Division of the patrol.

It has won for that division the first Governor's Trophy awarded for highway safety.

Capt. R. J. Taft, commander of the southwest division, and his staff are to be congratulated on the achievement.

May the results they have attained become general in the four patrol areas into which the state is divided.

The more we study the traffic safety problem the more we are convinced that solving it depends on an adequate, alert, highly vigilant force of state troopers.

No other sign is as conducive to sensible driving as "Georgia State Patrol" on the side of a car.

Georgia Needs Services Of These Young Doctors

The State Board of Medical Examiners recently has licensed 223 doctors to practice medicine in Georgia—the largest number ever licensed by the board at one time.

This is, of course, good news. Medical education in the state is a direct concern of us all. The number of physicians in Georgia in relation to the population has been considerably less than the national average and unequal to the state's need. Distribution of physicians, too, has been a problem with the tendency to concentrate in urban areas making medical care too difficult to obtain in many communities.

The building of Hill-Burton hospitals and the state's scholarship program for training doctors for practice in rural areas are doing a great deal to relieve the acute shortage of a few years ago. Gradually, the general health level is being raised.

Training of physicians is a lengthy, involved process. It is also expensive and growing more so. Medical schools and students must be subsidized even more if the supply of doctors is to keep up with the population.

Emory University Medical School and the State Medical College at Augusta each have their problems. The quality of their programs depends upon the amount of support from private and public sources for education and research.

We congratulate these young physicians and point out to them that Georgia provides an unlimited field of opportunity for service. We hope most of them choose to remain with us.

Mr. Williams' Powers Apparently Are Absolute

Having in effect summarily dismissed charges of law violations against all 34 Georgia wholesale liquor houses just as abruptly as he had padlocked them, Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams has now moved in on the retail stores. He closed down 53 of them Wednesday with the threat that the number might reach 100.

The whole business has Georgians a bit mystified. It seems incredible that all 34 wholesalers were violating the law and more incredible that such violations were not detected one at a time and the trouble corrected. It is even more strange that the commissioner's blanket charges named none specifically.

Citizens must be concerned, too, over the commissioner's power. Apparently he not only can close down these businesses at will but can dismiss what he called violations of the law after a "talk" with the violators. He serves as prosecutor, judge and jury.

By virtue of being revenue commissioner, Mr. Williams thus has abrogated unto himself complete authority over operation of the legal whisky traffic in the state.

With all this diligence, it should be easy for the commissioner to find out about the movement of legal whisky into dry counties. We've heard this still is going on in rather considerable proportions.

At any rate, all firms of whatever nature who do business requiring licenses from the revenue commissioner had best inquire into his powers. He seems to be well-stocked with padlocks.

Big-Hearted Miss Dowdy Served Her State Well

There's been a heap of change in rural living since Miss Willie Vie Dowdy went to work for the Agricultural Extension Service 38 years ago.

As home demonstration agent, then as home improvement specialist, Miss Willie Vie has had her part in contributing to that change.

She has retired now from the Extension Service, but not from service to farm homes. She'll still be advising homemakers as a member of the staff of the new radio station in her home town of Commerce.

Dynamic, capable, efficient, big-hearted.

Those are some of the words this fine lady's boss, Bill Sutton, used to describe her in noting her request for retirement.

Those words are a fine commendation to one who has served her state well.

The Constitution joins in that commendation and wishes Miss Willie Vie Dowdy well as she takes up the microphone in Commerce.

Who's Going To Pay For Adequate Schools?

A Georgian went up into Indiana the other day and gave the Hoosiers advice about local government.

Erle Cocke Jr., Legionnaire and airline official, told the Young Democrats of Indiana assembled in convention that local communities should be more self-reliant in solving their problems.

He said, "Local communities in both Georgia and Indiana are too prone to run to their state governments to solve their problems and then turn to the national government."

Hoosiers must have found it easy to lend an ear to what Erle opined.

Their state has been in the van in opposing federal aid to schools. Indeed, it was Charles Halleck, GOP congressman from Indiana, who maneuvered the House campaign that killed the federal aid bill.

We trust Erle Jr. told those Hoosiers, too, that if local communities are to have adequate schools and other services without state and federal aid, then local taxpayers are going to have to raise the ante above the level to which they are accustomed.

Atlantan Fears Russia and Red Chinese Would Overrun World If West Disarmed

Atlanta — This is about disarmament.

Suppose Russia, the United States and Britain were to agree to stop making bombs, military planes, guns and guided missiles and scrap those that they already have.

Then what if some international problem came up that they couldn't agree upon?

Isn't it logical to think that Russia, knowing there were no bombs or missiles to fear, together with her partner, Red China, would try to overwhelm the West with sheer manpower? And she would probably succeed unless we could hold them off with stones until we could arm again.

'Delta Is Contender For St. Louis Route'

Atlanta—An editorial which appeared in the July 30 issue of The Constitution referred to the debate between Trans-World Airlines and National Airlines as to which should serve Atlanta on the St. Louis-Miami route.

The editorial failed to mention that Delta, Atlanta's own airline, is an applicant and a strong contender for authority to serve Atlanta on a route between Miami, Tampa-St. Petersburg, Nashville and St. Louis.

The recommended decision of the examiner analyzed the applications of all of the carriers proposing service over this route including the applications of Delta, Braniff, National and Trans-World Airlines and narrowed the selection of the carrier to provide the needed service "to a choice between Delta and National with the principal factor in Delta's favor being its historic interest in the area and that in National's favor being its (alleged) need for route expansion and strengthening."

The examiner's recommended decision clearly establishes that Delta's proposal would provide the greatest measure of service and cited many prior board decisions which would more than justify the certification of Delta to provide service from Atlanta to Tampa-St. Petersburg, Nashville and St. Louis. The only reason the examiner gave for selecting National over Delta was the opinion of the examiner that National's routes should be expanded.

Government Secrecy Goes To Uncalled-for Extremes

Mr. Abe McGreggor Goff, general counsel of the Post Office Department, offered some personal views about government secrecy to the House Government Information Subcommittee just the other day.

Mr. Goff doesn't think there's too much government secrecy about the public's affairs. He thinks the public is pretty well informed about what is going on. So far so true; the public reads, listens and looks pretty carefully at all matters that affect people whenever there is a chance to do so.

But nobody can know the facts of a case when, as Chairman Moss pointed out, government officials hide their embarrassments under a secret stamp.

And that brings us to another view Mr. Goff expressed. He said, "From my observation the ordinary citizen has the reaction that public officials tell too much about public business rather than too little."

Frankly, we think Mr. Goff misreads public reaction if that is his view—or else somebody has mixed ed and that National was in need of strengthening.

This recommended decision is contrary to numerous prior precedents established by the board in providing new air services and relegates the public interest to a position secondary to and a by-product of the selfish interests of a particular air carrier.

To illustrate this latter point Atlanta should be cognizant of the fact that National would propose only two daily flights through Atlanta under its proposal. This should be compared to the 15 daily flights which Delta proposes to provide Atlanta in this proceeding which will all be new flights or extensions of existing flights to new cities which Delta is not now authorized to serve from Atlanta.

Delta does not consider the debate to be between Trans-World and National as indicated in the editorial but rather between Delta and National with Delta's proposal head and shoulders above the meager service which National would offer Atlanta.

FRANK F. ROX,

Attorney for Delta Air Lines.

Editor's Note: The editorial was based on a news story about TWA's bill of exceptions to National's tentative designation for the route in question. The Constitution editorial did not endorse either airline's petition, but welcomed the interest of new airlines in serving Atlanta as prophetic of the expanding future. If good neighbor Delta is selected that will be just dandy.

The Call Came Close to Home

It's hard to tell where this essay originated. I can be smug in passing it along. I have no son. On the other hand, you won't have to change the wording much for it to apply to all parents. The thought-provoking three paragraphs go like this:

"When he was three weeks old his parents turned him over to a baby-sitter. . . . When he was 2 years old, they dressed him up like a cowboy and gave him a gun. . . . When he was 3 every-body said, 'How cute' as he went about lispng a beer commercial jingle. . . . When he was 6 his father occasionally dropped him off at Sunday school on his way to the golf course. . . . When he was 8 they bought him a BB gun and taught him to shoot sparrows. He learned to shoot windshields himself. . . . When he was 10 he spent his after-school time squatting at a drugstore newsstand reading comic books. His mother wasn't home and his father was busy. . . . When he was 13 he told his parents the other boys stayed out as late as they wanted to. They told him he could, too. It was easier that way. . . . When he was 14, they gave him a deadly two-ton machine, wrangled a license for him to drive it and told him to be careful. . . . When he was 15, the police called his home one night and said, 'We have your boy. He's in trouble.'"

"In trouble?" screamed his father. "It can't be my boy!"

"But it was."

SHRUNK: Billy Dilworth of the Lavonia Times was asking the other day, "What became of 'wash-holes' and 'slack-rocks,' terms used extensively in yesterday's?"

I assume he means the 'ole swimmin'-hole. A friend was saying recently how disillusioning it is to go back and see the swimmin'-hole of childhood as nothing but a "mud puddle." It could be the falling water table. It could be the advancing years. Chances are it's both.

Things to do before you leave on vacation: Lock the cat up in the house, leave a faucet running so the cat can get water, leave a light on so if any one breaks in they can see, leave the stove turned on so it will be hot when you get back; leave the back door open so that you can call your neighbor the first night and tell them you are on your vacation, and ask them to check the above things for you. — Frank Stapleton in the News and Farmer, Louisville.

This Man Moves In World of Gray

You see him every once in a while, walking up and down before one of the big department stores, blowing his slow, sad tunes on a mouth organ, holding on to the harness of a small gray German shepherd dog. He is a tall man, all in gray. Gray hat, gray hair, gray shirt, gray trousers, gray, dead eyes behind the dark glasses.

The world he sees is neither dark nor light, but gray, without form and void, shapeless, without shadows, peopled only by sounds—of voices, of feet shuffling on pavements, of clothes rustling, of breathing. Peopled by ghosts that are neither seen nor heard, but sensed—that he knows are there though no sense tells him so except some inner sense that is extra and beyond the senses of sight, sound, hearing, taste, touch or smell.

"I can walk down the street from here to the bus station and I can tell you where I am every step of the way," he said. "But that is easy. I guess, unconsciously, in the back of my head, I am counting my steps, knowing when I pass each doorway, each window. But there are other things I know and I don't know how I know. You could be standing there, silent, by the side of the street, and I would not see you or hear you breathe or smell you. But I would know you were there. And I would know when I had passed you and gone on by."

The dog stopped and looked up at him.

"She wants water," he said. "She is a good dog. I trained her myself. She takes me 10 blocks from my house in Griffin to the bus station. She takes me to the ticket window. She leads me to the bus that is leaving for Atlanta. She finds an empty seat for me on the bus.

"When we get to Atlanta she leads me off the bus and into the bus station — and to the men's room. Then she takes me to the soda fountain so I can get her a cup of water and fill the canteen with the water she will drink during the day."

He knelt and poured water from the canteen at his hip into the canteen cup. The dog drank. Then he poured the water from the narrow-necked bottle of the canteen. He held the cup with his thumbs together at the lip. He held the canteen between his palms. Then he tilted the cup and poured, between the narrow channel formed by his thumbs.

He sensed my watching. He smiled.

"Did I spill a drop?" He asked. I told him "No, not a drop." He smiled again. "The blind," he said, "learn many little things."

Do What Is Right Regardless of Cost

We are told often these days about the importance of being loved. Psychologists trace many human problems back to times when the person was unloved and unappreciated. We know children need the loving companionship of their parents and if they fail to receive it the child is much more apt to become a delinquent. We read books on how to win friends and we hear about the importance of getting along with other people.

We may decide that being loved is the most important thing in life and the prize to be sought above all prizes. Such is not always the case.

There are times when it is better to be unloved. There are times when principles are more important than popularity and, if we are required to surrender one or the other, it is better to surrender the approval of men.

It is never pleasant to stand up for a conviction while all the rest are sitting down. It is not easy to go out on a limb while others are comfortably reclining in the shade on the grass. The desire to be with the crowd can cause one to be less than his best.

Consider Galileo, the Italian scientist. Though his studies he came to understand and believe in the Copernican astronomy. But it was not the popular idea. Most people refused to believe that the world rotated daily on its axis. That idea was denounced officially by the church and when Galileo was called before the authorities, he recanted.

He did not want to burn at the stake and we don't blame him for that. Maybe he reasoned, "Whatever I say about it won't matter because the truth will eventually prevail and I'd just as soon live a little longer." But I imagine Galileo had a little more trouble living with himself after that. He maintained the respect of other people but lost respect for himself. He made a bad bargain.

Howard Wayne Smith reminds us of Chrysostom, the early Christian preacher. When the Roman empire threatened to banish him, Chrysostom answered, "Thou canst not, for the world is my Father's house."

When the emperor threatened to kill him, he said, "Thou canst not, for my life is hid with Christ in God."

Finally the emperor said he would take away his friends, to which he replied, "That thou canst not, for I have a friend in Heaven from whom thou canst not separate me."

We have admiration for Chrysostom and for ourselves when we have the courage to stand up for what we know is right. In the end, this is the pathway to the love of other people.

Eisenhower Deserts GOP 'Modern' Wing

WASHINGTON—It is nine months since President Eisenhower, in the triumphant hour of his reelection, proclaimed a victory for "modern Republicanism." Today the "modern Republican" wing of the party, which did not flourish as the President hoped, is at low ebb. For this there are two reasons. One is the President himself.

The other is the "regular" GOP in Congress, which has been using its strength and its skill to gather power to itself to an extent generally overlooked until circumstances invite an exploration, as they do now.

As for the President, he has let down the "modern" or "Eisenhower" Republicans—who are, to be sure, a minority of the party in both House and Senate. The recent surrender on the school construction bill without a fight was a sign of the virtual abdication of the President as leader of "modern" Republicanism. It is, however, just one in a series of actions beginning early in his second administration that were listed here a few days ago.

With increasing misgivings, the beleaguered "Eisenhower" Republicans have watched the President waver indecisively on one issue after another—issues in which they are concerned and for which they were prepared to fight. Indeed, he appeared at times within the space of a few days to be on both sides.

The first, you will recall, was the Eisenhower budget. This was welcomed by "Eisenhower" Republicans as an adequate budget they were prepared to champion. They saw the President begin to wobble when Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, who retired this week, expressed fears the budget was too big. The President was on all sides of that issue.

Dr. Sheppard 18 on Trial, 36 Arrested The Killer, Police Insist In Armas Assassination

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 1 (UP)—The Cleveland police department indicated today it still believed Dr. Samuel Sheppard murdered his pregnant wife despite the confession of a Florida convict.

A $10,000 reward posted by the Sheppard family for the apprehension and conviction of the slayer was claimed by the department for its relief and pension fund.

The police department said it should receive the reward because Sheppard was convicted.

Cuyahoga County prosecutor John Corrigan is considering whether to begin extradition proceedings against Donald J. Wedler, 23, who signed a confession at DeLand, Fla.

GUATEMALA, Aug. 1 (UP)—A government official disclosed tonight that a military court is trying 18 persons charged with complicity in the assassination last Friday of President Carlos Castillo Armas.

Ismael Ortiz Orellana, national security chief, said 36 other persons were under arrest for investigation of their backgrounds.

SHOT DOWN

Castillo Armas was shot down by a palace guard who killed himself afterward. The killer, identified as Romero Vasquez Sanchez, was said to have had Communist sympathies.

One unofficial report said the 18 on trial are army officers and soldiers. They may include nine palace guards, not technically in the army.

Col. Jose M. Ortega, chief of the presidential palace household when Castillo Armas was slain, resigned that post during the day. Although he was responsible for the President's protection, he was not directly responsible for the makeup of the palace guard.

Acting President Luis Arturo Gonzalez immediately appointed Ortega a second undersecretary of defense and assigned him as Guatemala's military delegate to the headquarters of the Organization of Central American States.

INVESTIGATES EXILES
The appointment was interpreted here as indicating Gonzalez's confidence in Ortega, especially in a post where he can check on Guatemalan exiles reported plotting against the government.

The army meanwhile ordered all privately held arms, including hunting equipment, turned over to military authorities at once. Gonzalez worked on the membership of his new cabinet and received the first official visit from the diplomatic corps.

Castillo Armas' widow, expected to be named minister of education, visited the army general staff headquarters and thanked the officers for their loyalty.

Marilyn Fears a Miscarriage; Is Sped 100 Miles to Hospital

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (UP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe, America's No. 1 glamour girl, was taken 100 miles by ambulance from her home on Long Island today and admitted to a hospital here for a threatened miscarriage.

The blonde actress was accompanied on the ambulance ride by her playwright husband Arthur Miller.

She was carried into Doctors Hospital overlooking the East River on a stretcher at noon.

Miller told newsmen when he left the hospital briefly six hours later that Miss Monroe was "better." He said there was no indication when the baby would be born.

Asked how long she would be in the hospital, he said, "I really don't know."

The Millers, who were married in White Plains, N. Y., on June 29, 1956, had previously declined comment on recurring reports that she was pregnant.

Miller said he and his wife had been vacationing in a rented summer cottage at Amagansett, 12 miles from Montauk Point on Long Island, for the past six weeks.

Miller said that Miss Monroe had been "resting, digging clams and swimming" during her vacation.

The lanky playwright said he could not recall any incident, such as a fall, which could have brought on the threatened miscarriage.

U.S. Expects Outbreak of Asiatic Flu

Speeds Vaccine For Fall Epidemic

By RESS FURMAN
(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Public Health Service today warned of "the very definite probability, not a possibility" of a very large outbreak in the United States of Asiatic influenza this fall or winter.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney made the prediction at a news conference. He said his staff based it on "the millions of cases in the west Pacific and the Far East plus the factor of 11,000 cases partially established as Asiatic flu."

Dr. Burney pointed out an 1897 epidemic followed a change in influenza strain; that the 1918 outbreak also was due to a virus mutation; and that the Asiatic flu again is a new strain against which immunity has not been developed in the United States.

SPEEDING VACCINE

The surgeon general disclosed that the six manufacturers of influenza vaccine in this country already are working on triple shifts, seven days a week, to turn out 8,000,000 doses by mid-September, half of it to go to the armed forces.

The production target which the Public Health Service has asked the manufacturers to meet by Feb. 1 is 60,000,000 doses.

Each dose is one cubic centimeter. Dr. Burney said the vaccine already has been stepped up to five times the potency of the pilot vaccine announced July 10. He said the aim is to make the vaccine sufficiently potent for one dose to immunize. It takes 10 days to two weeks after the injection for enough antibodies to build up to give protection for one year.

Burney announced he is calling on the American Medical Assn. and the Association of State and Territorial Health officers to conduct the education campaign. He is suggesting that, as the vaccine becomes available, priority should be given to "those whose services are imperative for the care of the sick and those needed to maintain other essential functions."

MEDICAL WORKERS

He estimated doctors, nurses, hospital attendants and practical nurses at about 3,000,000. He said essential workers in the communication, transportation and utility industries would build up to about 12,000,000 the number who should receive earliest vaccinations.

Burney said that, when triggered by adverse weather, the disease could sweep from San Francisco to Boston in four weeks, incapacitating from 10 to 20 per cent of the population. In a city of a million, he said, there could be 100,000 to 200,000 persons ill in a few days.

The death rate has been very low, he said. He listed only three deaths, all from secondary infections, among the 11,000 cases which he said were recorded in the United States.

Curb to GI Trials by Allies Is Voted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—The House Armed Services Committee, by a lopsided 31 to 4 vote, approved legislation today designed to curb the government's authority to surrender American servicemen to foreign courts.

The bill, bitterly opposed by the State Department, would give the civilian secretary of the service involved responsibility for determining whether the United States had "primary jurisdiction" over crimes committed by GI's abroad. However, the secretary could waive jurisdiction under "unusual circumstances." These circumstances were not defined by the legislation and presumably would be left up to the discretion of the military secretary.

The legislation was an outgrowth of the Williams S. Girard case which touched off a widespread debate in and out of Congress over the so-called status-of-forces agreements with foreign governments.

The State Department, which had promised to "go down fighting" any changes in the agreements, has no official comment on the committee's action.

The committee bill actually was a watered down version of a proposal by Rep. Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex) to forbid the military services to surrender to foreign courts any serviceman accused of any crime while on duty overseas. The Kilday proposal, in turn, was a substitute for a bill by Rep. Frank T. Bow (R-Ohio) to require the President to cancel the government's status-of-forces agreements with other nations unless they recognized U. S. jurisdiction over GI crimes.

Waiting Benches Offered For Transit Riders Here

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Transit riders may have additional benches on which to sit while waiting in residential areas.

J. A. Long, president of the Key Advertising Co., Thursday offered to place from 10 to 20 benches at selected points as a trial. He said if they prove popular and practical he will pay the city $8 a year rental for each of the benches or 10 per cent of the revenue his firm will receive in advertising signs which will be placed on the benches.

Committeemen, headed by chairman Jesse Draper, told him to select the spots between curbs and sidewalks and to submit the list at an Aug. 15 session. Long said other cities have had good experience with the benches, that they promised a high standard of maintenance free of unsightly or offensive advertising.

City Construction Chief Ray Nixon and Planning Engineer Wynt Bear warned that the benches could not be placed in downtown areas and that some residential sections could not accommodate them. The committee decided to study the matter.

The committee also: 1. Approved a new agreement with Walter Sullivan to move eight of the remaining 10 Capitol View low-rent housing apartments left in the path of the downtown Expressway connector at a cost of $294,000. Nixon said a previous agreement to move the 10 exceeded available funds. Under the agreement the apartments will be moved to a block bounded by Woodward avenue and Terry, Fraser and Rawson streets.

2. Recommended that a contract be approved under which the Central of Georgia Railroad will deed right of way to widen West Whitehall street into a four-lane stretch from Gordon to Park streets. The city will agree to construct retaining walls to protect railroad property. Nixon said he plans to ask $35,000 next year to complete the two-block job and thus eliminate a traffic bottleneck.

3. Heard Nixon announce he proposes to seek $80,000 next year to replace two miles of heavy wire fence down the center of Expressways with semirigid center rails. He said the cost is around $5 a foot and that at the present time, the division can replace only from 600 to 700 feet a year.

3 Boys Tripped By Their Love For Fire Sirens

Three boys who like to hear fire engines thunder by landed in the hands of juvenile authorities Thursday.

Patrolmen D. C. Nasworthy and G. E. Wallace said the three—aged 8, 9 and 13—were taken into custody after a false alarm turned in at Marietta and Walton streets, Northwest.

Each accused the other of having turned in the alarm, patrolmen related. They said that as the argument progressed, each blamed another for a rash of false fire alarms over northwest Atlanta.

The investigation was turned over to fire inspector R. L. Parker. Parker said the three were lodged in the Juvenile Home.

Prison Terms, Not Fines, Will Deter Lottery Men, Fulton Judges Assert

Judges of Fulton Criminal Court will continue to levy straight prison terms on lottery operators, although some police officers feel large fines are more of a deterrent to lottery, it was learned Thursday.

Judge Charles G. Bruce declared "To give them fines is just a form of license to commit crimes and they pay the license only when they are caught."

The judge said he is satisfied that Judge J. Everett Thrift, the other Criminal Court judge, who is on vacation this week, feels the same way about the matter.

Criminal Sol. John I. Kelley asserted, however, that there "are cases when I think fines really ought to be imposed with a suspended sentence."

He said the "bankers" or lottery financiers should get straight time but that some "petty" operators, such as underprivileged persons who have been lured into the business, should be given fines.

IRON-CLAD RULE

The solicitor explained, though, that since it is an iron-clad rule of the judges to give straight time in such cases, his office rarely recommends any fines in lottery cases.

The judge and the solicitor were asked to comment on the matter because some lottery detectives have said privately that fines would be more of a deterrent to lottery because they would "take the profit out of the crime."

The officers, who asked not to be identified by name, said that when a lottery hiring is sent to jail the big operator merely hires someone else to take his place.

INFORMATION TO OFFICERS

They also suggested that the imposition of a fine too large for a smaller operator to pay might make him more amenable to give information to investigating officers.

Superior Court Judge Jesse M. Wood, who served a number of years on the Criminal Court bench, said he decided Nov. 1, 1937, to never again impose a fine in a lottery case.

The judge recalled that on numbers of occasions, he had seen lottery bosses "pull out a wad of money and pay a fine" for a man on condition that he continue to work for them.

"Fines won't do a particle of good," he declared.

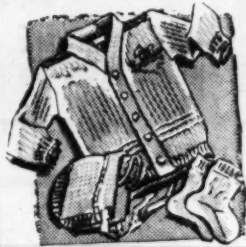

JURY RECOMMENDATION

Kelley said that the present practice of imposing straight time was put into effect after a grand jury recommended it a number of years ago. He said Judge Luther Alverson tried assessing fines for a while in Criminal Court but changed to the straight time method. Judge Bruce said that the straight-time sentencing is forcing lottery operators to use "the aged and indigent" as writers, rather than hard-to-catch younger men.

"Moreover, I consider straight time a greater deterrent than a mere fine and suspended sentence," he said. Fines allow lottery bankers to keep their underlings out of jail "simply by paying their fines," the judge asserted.

Hartwell Report Expected in Month

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—A report on a new survey of the multimillion-dollar Hartwell Dam project on the Savannah River will be made to Congress in September.

Aides said yesterday that Maj. Gen. Emerson C. Itschner, chief of Army engineers, expected to complete his review of a report of the district engineers in Savannah by that time.

The re-survey was made after Clemson College, Clemson, S.C., complained about college lands being flooded by the multi-purpose project.

Last week Itschner ordered the award of a contract for about 22 million dollars to build the main concrete section of the dam at an elevation of 660 feet.

Work on the project was halted by congressional order early this year while engineers considered a proposal by Clemson to save some college lands from inundation.

Paris Crisis On Budget Stirs Battle

Fiscal Chief Aims
Row With Premier

By HAROLD CALLENDER

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The dispute in the Cabinet on budget cuts to meet the financial crisis appeared to have sharpened tonight after a long session of the ministers. Premier Maurice Bourges-Maumoury issued a statement saying the Cabinet had agreed on cutting 600,000,000 francs ($1,700,000,000) from the budget for 1958. He added that it had agreed on actual cuts amounting to all but 5 billion francs of this sum, which remained to be determined. An hour later Felix Gaillard, finance minister, made a statement that seemed to contradict that of the premier. He said that he would quit the Cabinet if "concrete decisions are not taken in the very first days of next week." He thus implied that such decisions had not been taken.

DEMANDS NOT MET

His associates at the finance ministry added that Gaillard was not satisfied with the Cabinet discussion, the fifth in two days. They said the economics he had demanded had not been conceded, as the premier had asserted. They reiterated Gaillard's unyielding insistence on the 600-billion franc cuts designed to insure a deficit for 1958 of not more than 828 billion francs.

It is unusual for a Cabinet dispute to take the public form that this one took. It seemed to have started as a conflict between the Socialist minister for social affairs, Albert Gazier, and Gaillard, but to have developed into one between the premier and Gaillard, both radicals.

Gaillard's position was made crystal clear in a long statement published today. In it he said two problems remained unsettled. One was that of the public finance. The other was that of the foreign trade deficit that has drained away France's reserves of foreign currency and more than one-third of the gold reserve of the Bank of France.

CONFIRMING DECADENCE
Gaillard then added: "The time has come to say that if in the coming months we do not set about solving these two last problems, we shall risk confirming irrevocably a decadence that it is in our power to surmount."

By this Gaillard meant that unless France put her economy and finances in order and "lived within her means," she would be unable to participate in the common market on an equal footing with her neighbors, her industries competing with theirs without protective barriers.

The budget cuts, long disputed in the Cabinet today, were designed to curtail domestic consumption and stabilize domestic prices to enable France to export at competitive prices and thus balance her accounts with the rest of the world.

"GET A WAILING WALL," SAYS REPUBLICAN

GOP Boasts of Record, Sets Off Verbal Riot by House Democrats

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—His party for everything from the administration's fiscal policies to the appointment of Maxwell H. Gluck as U. S. ambassador to Ceylon.

House GOP whip Leslie C. Arends told the Democrats to get a "wailing wall" added to the House chamber. A 40-page mimeographed brochure listing the "Republican record of accomplishments by executive departments — 1953 - 67" brought on the Democratic attack. It was prepared by the Republican Congressional Committee which delivered two copies to each of the Republican House members earlier this week. The document points with pride to the accomplishments of each of the 10 cabinet agencies.

The Democrats, one after another, arose in the House to denounce the record of the Republicans. By the end of next week the GOP committee will issue a second document — a "speech kit" — to House Republicans so they can defend the Eisenhower administration record when they go back home.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.), who said he has the top average among Democrats of supporting Eisenhower with 88 per cent of his votes, told the House that the President should do more to support his own programs, such as school construction and the natural gas bill.

"I wish Ike would support Ike more often," Reuss said, amid laughter.

Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.) said he was "a little ashamed" to find himself supporting Eisenhower so often. But he explained it by saying that the President shifts from side to side in any controversy.

"In many votes," Dingell said, "I assumed I was opposing the President but he double-crossed me and changed his position to the one I supported."

Rep. Frank M. Karsten (D-Mo.) said the administration "doesn't need fiscal brains" to handle the nation's affairs — "it can operate on wind and noise."

House GOP leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) told the Democrats, "You are not going to get anywhere with these false attacks on the character, integrity and honesty of the President of the United States."

Rep. Elford A. Cederberg (R-Mich.) said that Republican prosperity was "too much" for the Democrats.

"But you might as well get used to it," he said, "because it's going to be here for a long time unless the people are stupid enough to vote in the Democrats."

Deluxe Animal Hotels
Cater to Paris Pets

PARIS, Aug. 1 (UP)—Paris now has its first boarding house for domestic animals, complete with hot water, individual apartments, swimming pool, recreation park and beauty parlor.

The CCIA statement urges a five-step program of international agreements for halting bomb tests, disarmament and safeguarding the peace, but notes the obstacles in negotiating them.

To try to break the impasse, it says, "There is a risk for peace which Christians in countries projecting tests of nuclear weapons are justified in advocating. In the hope of breaking through the barriers of distrust."

"They can urge their governments to forego tests for a trial period; in the hope that others will do the same, a new confidence will be born, and foundations will be laid for reliable agreements."

Methodist Bishop Sante Uberto Barbieri, of Buenos Aires, Argentina, advocated a "stronger and more direct statement." So did Dr. M. Niemoller, of Wiesbaden, Germany, and some other speakers.

However, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, primate of the Church of England, said the pronouncement is "exactly what it ought to be."

"It doesn't say Christians have got to advocate this course," he said. "It says they're perfectly justified in advocating it. And I think they are."

Soviet Holds 80,000 Plus, Bonn Reveals

MOSCOW, Aug. 1 (UP)—West Germany's Ambassador Wilhelm Haas showed Western correspondents a massive set of files tonight and said they contained the stories of well over 80,000 Germans asking to go home from the Soviet Union.

The Soviet government does not recognize the German citizenship of the applicants and maintains they are Soviet citizens.

The dramatic demonstration was staged in the cellar and file rooms of the West German Embassy in Moscow.

It was in rebuttal to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's statement last night that there are no German citizens in the Soviet Union left to repatriate.

It was less than 24 hours after Rolf Lahr, special ambassador, broke off the Soviet German negotiations on repatriation and flew back to Bonn.

Haas said well over 100,000 Germans have written letters or appeared personally at the embassy with requests for repatriation.

Gluck Clearly Doesn't Know Far East, Herter Concedes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter defended Maxwell H. Gluck's controversial appointment as ambassador to Ceylon today. But he said "I don't know yet" whether he will make a good envoy.

Herter told newsmen after a two and a half hour closed-door session with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the Ohio businessman was "clearly a man who was entirely unfamiliar" with the Far East.

At another point, he said he was "still convinced he (Gluck) could make a good ambassador."

Committee Chairman Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.) said he was "still of the opinion Gluck should not have been appointed. I don't think he has the qualifications."

The controversy over Gluck's nomination arose after a transcript of his testimony before the Senate group showed he was a heavy contributor to the Republican party. It also brought out that Gluck did not know the name of the Ceylonese prime minister.

President Eisenhower heatedly told his news conference yesterday that he would never give a government job to a man on the basis of political contributions. But GOP Chairman Meade Alcorn said today after a meeting with Eisenhower that campaign contributions should not bar the donor from consideration for a government post. He said Gluck's appointment was not discussed at the White House meeting.

Herter, questioned by newsmen, said he had "never heard the question of contributions to any political party or individual" mentioned in connection with any nominee for a diplomatic post.

He denied that the Republican National Committee must endorse ambassadorial nominations.

He said he did not "know yet" whether Gluck would make a good envoy to Ceylon, adding that this was hard to determine until a man had been on the job for a while.

GIRARD AT DEATH SCENE—TOKYO, Aug. 1.—Pvt. William Girard of Ottawa, Ill., left, with his attorney, Itsuro Hayashi, right, and Army legal adviser Maj. Stanley Levin discuss details of the shooting incident at the Somagahara firing range 80 miles west of Tokyo. Girard is charged with causing the death of a Japanese woman.

'Mrs. Murphy' Called 'Insulting to the Irish'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—A congressional Irishman got stirred up today over a song called "Who Threw the Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder."

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass.) said the song identified the culprit as a "mick" and was insulting to the Irish.

If the radio-television networks are going to rewrite "My Old Kentucky Home" to take out such words as "darkies" and "massa," he said, then they ought to stop playing the chowder song.

O'Neill said he also believed that "modern, double-meaning . . . Elvis Presley songs" should be banned from the radio-TV networks.

He voiced his protest at a House Rules Committee hearing on a proposal to investigate network censorship of Stephen Foster-type folk songs.

The investigation was advocated by two Southerners who said they suspected the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was behind the censorship.

Rep. Frank Chelf (D-Ky.) said the networks have been tampering with the lyrics of "Way Down Upon the Suwannee River" and other songs on grounds certain words were offensive to Negroes.

He said the charge that such songs were "detrimental or harmful to the colored race or to any race contains about as much truth as the gold fillings that are to be found in the teeth of a dead dicky-bird."

"If we are going to change every song that has something in it that somebody does not like—there's not enough rewrite men in America to even get the project started," Chelf said.

'GRANDMA' HUDSON HONORED FOR WORK
Talks With Charles Lyon, DeKalb 'Dimes' Head

DeKalb Toasts Service Of 'Grandma' Hudson

By OSCAR JOHNSON

DeKalb County threw a surprise testimonial dinner Thursday night for one of its most well-known and beloved citizens—Mrs. Guy W. Hudson.

More than a dozen governmental and civic leaders of the Atlanta and DeKalb area praised the work and spirit of Mrs. Hudson, known to people all over the county as "Grandma." When the speeches were over, "Grandma"—somewhat flabbergasted but not speechless—characteristically praised the people assembled to honor her.

The dinner, sponsored by the DeKalb chapter of the National Association for Infantile Paralysis, was held at the Decatur Elks Club. Mrs. Hudson had been told the dinner was to honor the women who have worked with her in county March of Dimes campaigns.

LEADER AFTER LEADER

Midway in the program, Judge H. O. Hubert of the DeKalb Superior Court presented Mrs. Hudson an orchid and praised her work in many DeKalb civic organizations and as executive secretary of the chamber of commerce. He was followed by leader after leader who told the 150 people present of Mrs. Hudson's lifetime of work in DeKalb.

Mrs. Hudson arose to this occasion as she has to many calls in the past. She thanked the people there to do her honor, and with a trace of a tear in her eye congratulated them for their success in Dimes drives.

She had also a word for other DeKalb County women. "I've never called on a DeKalb County woman during my work in the county who didn't respond."

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED

She added that she has seen much accomplished in DeKalb "in my three score years and ten," but would still like to see two things:

The Stone Mountain Memorial finished.

Polio become as scarce as scarlet fever.

Then this woman affectionately known as "Grandma" couldn't resist making a pitch for one of the projects she is interested in. She urged everyone there to attend the DeKalb County Fair, set for September.

Krulls Attempt Suicide; Face Sentencing Today

Convicted kidnap-rapists George and Michael Krull will be sentenced for the third time Friday despite their efforts to kill themselves early Thursday in their cells at Federal Prison.

Prison officials said the brothers have rallied sufficiently from their self-inflicted wounds to appear in court to be re-sentenced for the 1953 kidnap and rape of a 53-year-old Chattanooga businesswoman.

Warden Fred T. Wilkinson of the U.S. Penitentiary here said the Krulls lost a considerable amount of blood and each required a transfusion after they cut their left arms.

He said the brothers apparently punctured their arms with bed springs in their separate private cells, then tore at their flesh with their teeth and fingernails.

Twice U.S. District Judge Frank Hooper has sentenced the brothers to die in the electric chair. The third sentencing comes after President Eisenhower denied executive clemency.

Meanwhile, the victim said she received a letter from the condemned men begging for her intervention to save their lives. She said George, 36, and Michael, 32, asked her to write the Pardon and Parole Board in their behalf. She said she did not answer their letter.

"They didn't answer me when I pleaded with them that day in April of 1955," she said, "and when they begged me, I didn't answer."

The woman could not be reached Friday, but her mother told a Constitution reporter there is no chance her daughter will have a change of heart. She said her daughter "hasn't been able to sleep since it happened."

Bobby Lee Cook, Summerville, one of the Krulls' court-appointed attorneys, said he knows no other legal remedy open to them since both the White House and the U.S. Supreme Court have turned down their pleas for life prison terms.

Lottery Man In Contempt; Left Country

A convicted lottery operator who left the country after being ordered to appear before a lottery-probing Fulton County grand jury was ruled in contempt of court Thursday.

Superior Court Judge Jesse M. Wood signed an order directing that the Negro, Cleveland (Galanized) Murray, 20, pay a $50 fine and serve 20 days in jail.

The order specified that Murray, however, could "purge himself of the service of said jail sentence" after payment of the fine by "appearing and testifying before the grand jury now in session."

Investigators John W. Williams and J. W. Gilbert of Sol. Gen. Paul Webb's office said Murray was served with a subpoena by indictment attorney Charlie Stewart to appear before the May-June term of the grand jury.

"We found him (Murray) three months later," Williams said. The investigators said they learned that Murray was among six persons who left Atlanta when the "heat" was turned on during the early stages of the lottery probe, and went to Miami. They said the Negro told them he later went to Cuba.

Atlantan Held On Bond in Girl-Phoning

An Atlantan who, police said, was shot and stabbed by the father of a small girl was ordered held Thursday under bonds totaling $2,500.

Municipal Judge Luke Arnold assessed a $2,000 bond against Edwin C. Largin, 30, of 656 Vernon Ave., on charges of molesting a minor child. The bond was returnable to the grand jury.

Arnold also ordered Largin, a plumber, held under $500 bond for Fulton Criminal Court on charges of using opprobrious words in the presence of a female.

Largin was shot and stabbed after a telephone call and later Draft Chairman in Sandersville Quits To Protest GI Trials Abroad

SANDERSVILLE, Aug. 1—The chairman of the Washington County Selective Service Board has resigned his position in protest to the recent Supreme Court ruling that American service men can be tried by foreign courts.

Corbett H. Cooke Sr. turned in his resignation after serving for 10 years. His statement said:

"My reason for resigning is that I refuse to induct any more boys into the service to be sent to foreign countries to be tried in foreign courts. I do this in protest against the ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court—that American service men can be tried by foreign courts. Jasper Crash Victim's Body Is Exhumed

JASPER, Ga., Aug. 1—The body of a July traffic victim was exhumed today upon the request of Pickens County Sheriff Howard Cagle and Herman Jones, head of the state crime laboratory.

Mrs. Mary Henderson, 23, and her three-year-old son, Larry, were killed instantly July 18 on state highway 53 about 14 miles west of Jasper.

A man identified by Cagle as Forest Wade, 28, of Rte. 4, Colquitt County, is being held on a murder charge in the Pickens County jail here.

In ordering the body exhumed Cagle said, "We wanted to establish facts on where and how she was hit."

The federation will link 13 of Britain's former island colonies into a single nation within the British Commonwealth.

The announcement said Lord Hailes has proposed to hold federal elections on March 25, 1958. An announcement on the date of the inauguration of the federal Legislature will be made as soon as possible.

Dio Worked For Union, Probe Told

Senators Hear Ex-Labor Leader

burn said, the AFL, like a court, has to have some evidence and proof—the fact that Dio was a convicted extortionist wasn't enough. He said he went to Dubinsky in 1952 or possibly 1951 with the hopes of getting evidence.

Washburn said he was satisfied Dubinsky knew of Dio's true character because Dio "was connected with the trucking racket in the garment industry, and how could Dave Dubinsky not know?"

Dubinsky, Washburn testified, had been hammering at the UAW to oust Dio. He said the ILGWU president told him: "He's no good. Get rid of him."

The witness, 48, now a builder and summer resort operator at Rhineland, Wis., said he asked Dubinsky: "What have you got that we can use to get rid of Johnny Dio?"

FILE OF CLIPPINGS

He said all Dubinsky produced was a file of clippings, which he already had himself, from the New York Times. He said he told Dubinsky: "You can't get rid of him on newspaper clippings."

Washburn said he raised the question of the relationship of Sam Berger at the time an ILGWU official, with Dio and asked why Dubinsky didn't get rid of Berger. Dubinsky told him, he said, that "we consider him less dangerous than out."

The committee heard testimony yesterday that Berger helped Dio get into the UAW. It was "a long time after" the conference with Dubinsky that Berger was thrown out of the ILGWU, Washburn said.

Washburn said he also found out that Dio once worked for the ILGWU and confronted Dubinsky with this information.

NAMED PLANT

"I named the plant and the city," he said. "He got very excited."

Dubinsky told him, he said, "Well, there's sometimes we have to hire people but not let them on the inside."

Washburn said he was told Dio had been assigned around 1950 to a Roanoke, Va., dress plant by a vice president but said that the man's wife was Dubinsky's personal secretary.

It was a plant Dubinsky had tried for years to organize, Washburn said, and apparently Dio was used to do it.

Washburn testified that he chartered UAW Local 102 in New York without knowing Dio had helped organize and finance it.

COMMITTEE CONTENTS

The Senate committee contents Dio used the local as a springboard for setting up other UAW locals in New York, and jumping from there into New York Teamster locals.

Back in 1954, Washburn threw Dio out of the UAW and suspended seven locals of which Dio allegedly was the master.

Dubinsky told newsmen a complaint he submitted to the AFL in May 1952 was responsible for withdrawing the charter of UAW-AFL Local 102.

He said the complaint grew out of the appointment of the AFL—before its merger with the CIO—of a committee that investigated the UAW situation. Dubinsky, an AFL vice president, served on the committee with George Meany and William McFetridge.

ment of the other zone of inspection in Europe.

Although Pineau on his departure for Paris asserted these proposals would not go before the United Nations subcommittee on disarmament tomorrow, opinion in the United States and British delegations is that it will be possible to present them then.

It is expected that Harold E. Stassen, chief United States delegate, will present the proposals on behalf of the western powers.

Dulles, however, may present the proposals to the subcommittee. He plans to leave London for the United States tomorrow evening.

Prospects for an early adjournment of the subcommittee vanished today. The five member delegations, the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France and Canada, have agreed to send interim reports to the United Nations committee on disarmament and continue their discussions here.

to the incident staged by the rebels in Smith's presence.

The seizure was effected by a Cabinet decree suspending Cuban constitutional guarantees for 45 days. It amounts to a form of martial law.

Censorship quickly went into effect. Censors were stationed in newspapers, radio and TV offices and cable offices. One immediate aim was to ban any news of support for rebels the government has been battling since last December.

Batista called Congress into special session to ratify the Cabinet's suspension of guarantees.

Buildings Converted

MOSCOW, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Soviet Union announces it is converting former government ministry buildings into 7 youth hospitals, 2 boarding schools, 3 day schools, 10 camps for youngsters, 43 kindergartens, 400 summer houses and several homes for the aged.

block other legislation until agreement is reached to vote on the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill.

The agriculture measure was $288,900,000 below the President's original request. But it represented a victory for the administration in that it kept alive the surplus crop section of the soil bank which the House had voted to kill after this year.

The two money bills now go to the President for his signature.

The government's stop-gap spending authority ran out last night, prompting the White House to issue a special statement this morning warning that there was "no legal authority" to meet August payrolls for about 1,250,000 civilian employees and 2,800,000 military personnel.

Eisenhower directed a special appeal to 1,200 employees of the Small Business Administration to stay on the job despite the fact that the agency technically went out of business last night. But the White House voiced belief the Senate would revive it quickly. Morse said he would co-sponsor such a move once the jury trial amendment was out of the way.

The defense bill, by far the biggest money measure of the session, was approved by the House last month. It carried $197,125,000 more than the House originally voted but $774,379,000 less than the Senate approved.

The final figure was $2,368,150,000 short of the President's original request. But about half of this represented bookkeeping cuts. In addition, the Defense Department said at the last minute that it could get along with less because of a projected 100,000 cut in manpower.

This led to charges by Senate Democrats that the administration had pulled the rug from under them in their attempts to reach a compromise nearer the original Senate figure.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), a former Air Force secretary, renewed his charges today that "political considerations have been given priority by the administration over security."

chiefs of staff of both countries," the announcement said.

The statement said that an integrated headquarters would be established and joint plans and procedure developed in peacetime, "ready for immediate use in case of an emergency."

An Air Force spokesman pointed out that the United States and Canada now cooperate in the distant early warning (DEW) line; the mid-Canada line, which is similar to it as an electronic, signalling system of approaching enemy aircraft; the "pine tree" system, covering a network of radar devices north of the border, and a series of operational agreements that have been made since 1950.

Canadians Receive Pre-Historic Relic

REGINA, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History has received a white quartz carving of a buffalo believed by archaeologists to be perhaps 10,000 years old. The 9½-inch relic, presumably the work of Indians or other primitive residents of this province, was found by a Saskatoon district farmer 12 years ago as he was plowing.

Dixie Wins as Rights Jury Trial Is Voted

they managed to restrict it to a protection of voting rights.

That success came when they got enough Northern and Western senators to go along with them in striking out Part III of the bill, which would have permitted the attorney general to enforce all manner of civil rights.

Countering Northern liberal arguments against the jury trial amendment, Sen. O'Mahoney said it would actually strengthen the bill and still preserve the historic guarantee of trial by jury as well as the right to vote.

Church, Kefauver and Southern senators paraded to the floor in the closing hours of the debate to argue the jury trial cause against liberals like Case, Javits (R-NY), McNamara (D-Mich), Douglas (D-Ill.), and others.

The South's triumph was also another personal victory for their acknowledged leader, Georgia's Russell, and for majority leader Johnson.

It was a major setback for Republican Leader Knowland and what Russell called the "Knowland-Douglas axis" of alleged civil rights.

The action also paved the way for further amendments to part 1 of the bill and probable speedy passage of the right-to-vote measure without a prolonged Southern filibuster.

Part 1 of the bill creates a commission to investigate any alleged denial of Negro voting rights, and is aimed at the South.

Certain to be adopted to this section are amendments giving Congress a voice in naming the director of the commission and striking out a provision that would permit the commission to employ voluntary and uncompensated personnel.

That provision, Russell and other Southerners have argued, would permit the commission to use the partisan services of organizations like the NAACP and ADA.

Knowland already has agreed to its removal.

The jury trial amendment won was not all the Southerners wanted, but it was the best they could get.

Most of them still will oppose final passage of the bill, but adoption of the jury trial proviso was major triumph and means no all-out filibuster is likely, although some Dixie senators may stage a token talkathon for the record back home.

Final action on the bill itself, probably some time next week, will then send it back to the house for agreement.

The House passed it without any amendments and civil rights leaders may not want to go along with the Senate deletions.

That could send the bill to a conference committee and continued wrangling before final action this session.

into flames despite the water from the hoses.

J. W. Carpenter, first assistant fire chief, said automobiles and paint and lacquer used in automotive repair work burned inside the building.

"With a stubborn fire like this one," he said, "all you can do is deluge it with water and try to wash it out. These fires are very tough. They're stubborn."

Despite paint and lacquer in the interior of the building, there were no explosions.

The company principally does transmission work on cars, Carpenter said.

The roof of the structure burst into flames a few minutes after the arrival of firemen.

When firemen finally were able to enter the second floor through the rear, water from fire hoses "blew" through the windows into the street, spraying hundreds of spectators. Mayor Hartsfield was at the scene and climbed over a fire truck to dodge the water.

The fire was brought under control in about an hour.

27 'Girlie' Magazines Taken Off Augusta Stands

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 1 (AP)—More than two dozen girlie-type magazines "showing signs of obscenity have been removed from newsstands here."

R. L. Kinsella, operator of the Kinsella News Co., said 27 separate magazines were withdrawn by him voluntarily after the quasi-official Georgia Literature Commission listed them as "showing evidence of obscenity."

Kinsella reported that the commission had turned thumbs down on a total of 53 national magazines, but that only 27 were distributed locally. Publications pulled from newsstands here included Confidential, Escape and Nugget.

Kinsella said the commission will hold an executive session in Atlanta at 10 a.m. tomorrow to discuss each of the 53 magazines with information supplied by publishers and distributors.

Hubert Dyer, a member of the commission, told newsmen tonight that the state body actually has made no requests that magazines be taken from newsstands.

Kinsella said his action was voluntary following advice from the attorney representing wholesalers throughout the state. Kinsella said he understood that the same action was being taken by distributors throughout Georgia.

Dyer said the attorney, Morris Abram of Atlanta, told the commission at a July 12 hearing he was going to advise distributors to remove the prescribed magazines in view of a July 1 supreme court ruling.

Dyer quoted Abram as saying that distributors would therefore be in a better position if indictments were brought against them in the future.

"I am trying to show good faith by pulling magazines from the newsstands pending tomorrow's decision," Kinsella said. "I am not a censor, but I will abide by anything the commission rules," he said.

Raymond Kozlowski, 17, and Lawrence Adas, 16, had their hearing continued to Aug. 6 to set the date for a new trial. Judge Crowley said in the cases of Kozlowski and Adas the state failed to prove the defendants had advance knowledge of the assault. He said he did not want to retry the two cases himself.

5 Teens Get 14-20 Yrs. in Racial Killing

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—Five white teen-agers charged with murder in the hammer slaying of a 17-year-old Negro today received prison terms ranging from 14 to 20 years. Two others were granted new trials.

The youths were among 15 originally named in an indictment as the slayers of Alvin Palmer. Palmer was struck down March 11 as he stood at a South Side corner waiting for a bus.

One of the pack, Joseph Schwartz, 18, admitted wielding the ball-peen hammer and earlier received a 30-year prison sentence.

SENTENCES

Chief Justice Wilbert F. Crowley of Criminal Court sentenced Ronald Rybka, 17, to 20 years; Thomas Trybula, 16, to 14 years; Edward Fron, 17, to 14 years; Andrew Budz, 17, to 14 years and Edward Groski, 17, to 14 years. Judge Crowley recently convicted the youths at a nonjury trial.

Raymond Kozlowski, 17, and Lawrence Adas, 16, had their hearing continued to Aug. 6 to set the date for a new trial. Judge Crowley said in the cases of Kozlowski and Adas the state failed to prove the defendants had advance knowledge of the assault. He said he did not want to retry the two cases himself.

Charges against six other youths have been dropped.

POLICE STOP THE MUSIC

Calypso Sam's on the Lam

---But His Band Plays On

Calypso Sam is still on the go, but his band plays on. At least it did until police arrived quietly and unnoticed Thursday to break up a sidewalk concert at Peachtree and Ivy streets, N.E.

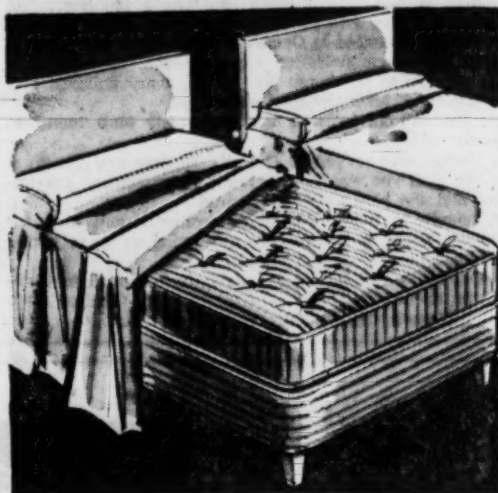

Sam, 15-year-old originator of the band, wasn't there. However, Patrolmen G. E. Wallace and D. C. Nasworthy said a seven-year-old who was a member of the original band had assumed command and recruited an entirely new outfit.

They were so busy entertaining a group of pedestrians with original tunes accentuated by homemade drums that they failed to notice the arrival of police. Wallace and Nasworthy scooped them up and carted them off to the juvenile detention home.

Their pockets jingled with coins which spectators had tossed down to encourage variations of the buck and wing, flavored with a bit of Charleston. Their spirits were not so high, though.

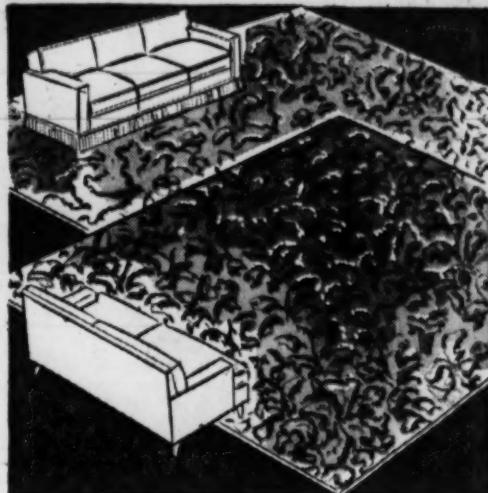

One, a 10-year-old, pointed an accusing finger at the seven-year-old who was pinch-hitting for Sam. "You said we'd get a lot of money," he said. "You didn't say nothin' 'bout the cops."

Will Ghana, South Africa Swap Ties?

Strict Segregation Hampers Envoys

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 1 (AP)—The prospect of an exchange of diplomats with Ghana has sent a new breeze wafting through the rigidly segregated Union of South Africa.

Ghana is the new Negro nation formed last March from a merger of the Gold Coast and British Togoland. Like South Africa, it is a member of the British Commonwealth.

The Ghana envoy of Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah is not expected to arrive in the near future. Long negotiations will be necessary before any nonwhite can move into the diplomatic colony and face the color bars maintained here for centuries.

COMMITTED TO EXCHANGE

But Prime Minister J. G. Strijdom's government is committed to an exchange of envoys. And, as other new and independent African states emerge, other nonwhite diplomats will be braving the chills of apartheid in South Africa.

In a country where Negroes are segregated from the cradle to the grave and the official policy is to perfect this segregation, the new diplomatic development has created something of a dilemma.

It has also brought about a reappraisal of the subject of segregation on a social level.

LITTLE VALUE

Ghana's high commissioner to South Africa would be of little value to his government if, like other Africans here, he had to live in a native settlement, shun diplomatic receptions and talk freely only to other Africans.

He will have to attend state banquets, travel first class on the railways, be granted hotel accommodations and sit among the distinguished in the galleries of parliament. His assistants and advisers will have to be accorded similar courtesies.

The government is aware of the problems and is determined the exchange of diplomats will not take place until preparations have been made to avoid the possibility of any "diplomatic incident." The government also has the inverse problem of finding a white diplomat who can go to Accra, Ghana's capital, and stay out of trouble.

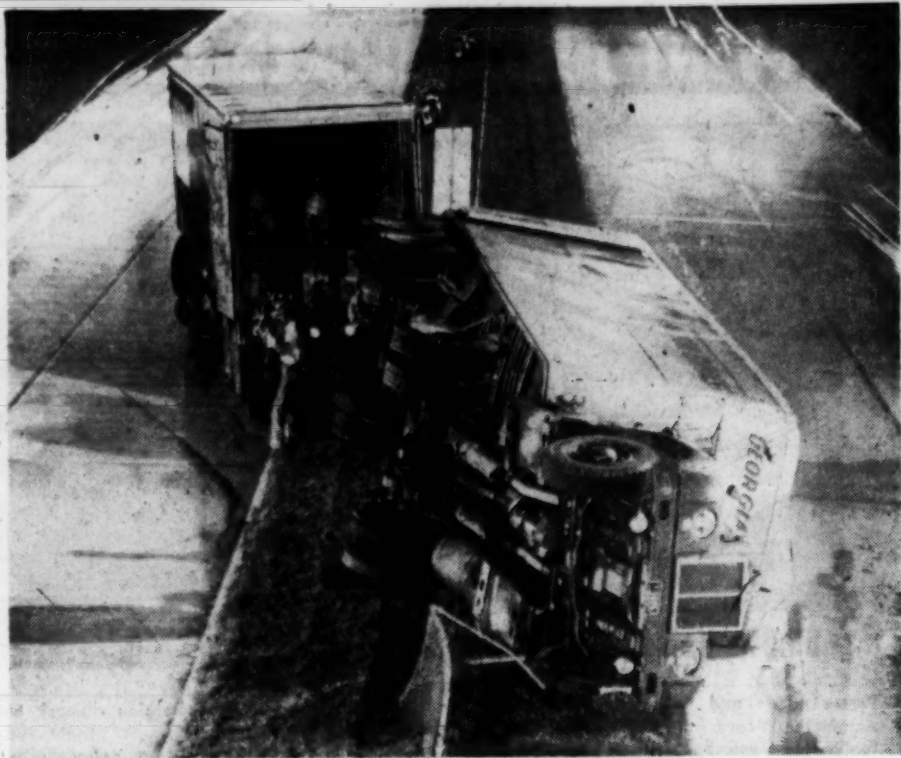

NOT YET RIPE

Foreign Minister Eric Louw has emphasized that, while diplomatic relations undoubtedly will be opened, the time is "not yet ripe."

Louw contributed to the discussion here when he invited Nkrumah to lunch during the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London recently. Nkrumah said later he and Louw had talked "man to man and heart to heart."

The Afrikaans newspaper Die Burger of Capetown, a supporter of the government, set tongues moving all over the country by publishing a plea for "a policy of necessary exceptions—not only for high black officials from foreign countries, but for civilized South African nonwhites."

The article said, however, that the "breaking down of the existing social separation between the whites and the nonwhite mass would be a catastrophe."

LOAD SHIFT OVERTURNS VEHICLE—Buford Ladd of Nashville, Tenn., told Patrolmen E. H. Odom and R. T. Appling he was driving this tractor-trailer down a ramp from Northside drive into the northwest Expressway leg when the load of instant coffee evidently shifted, causing the vehicle to overturn on a fence. The cargo did not break, and was retrieved by another truck. Ladd suffered scratches. He was booked on charges of damage to city property (fence) and failure to remain in proper traffic lane.

Hunted Mrs. Gray Quits Caravan in N. Carolina

By KEELER MCCARTNEY

A widely sought Decatur bookkeeper apparently has abandoned her menagerie and highway caravan in North Carolina and taken to the road in an unidentified vehicle, the FBI said late Thursday.

Mrs. Janet R. Gray, 40, former bookkeeper at a medical clinic in Decatur where an estimated $100,000 shortage in funds has developed, evidently began discarding items from her highway train when safely over the Georgia line.

J. K. Mumford, special agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office, said agents had pieced together this story:

Mrs. Gray rented three moving vans in Atlanta and loaded two with furniture and clothing and secreted them.

She loaded between 40 and 50 dogs from her kennels, including a prize cocker spaniel, "Rise and Shine," and employed a driver for the van.

Mrs. Gray led the procession in her pink, air-conditioned sedan. A niece followed in a station wagon. The driver in the rented van containing the dogs and a fourth person in the hired driver's car brought up the rear.

The caravan halted Tuesday at

Miss Willie Vie Dowdy Is Retiring As State Home Demonstration Chief

Constitution State News Service

ATHENS, Aug. 1—Miss Willie Vie Dowdy, who was chased by a woman with a broom when she was a beginner, has retired after 38 years with the Agricultural Extension Service. That incident occurred in Oconee County when Miss Dowdy began as a home demonstration agent in 1918. "She told me, 'I don't need you to teach me how to raise my children and keep my house,'" Miss Dowdy recalled.

Later, the woman became a regular HD club member, Miss Dowdy added.

Miss Dowdy also served in DeKalb, Bartow and Chatham counties. In 1926, she was named home improvement specialist, a position she held until she retired.

Miss Dowdy is now director of women's activities for radio station WJJC in Commerce, continuing to boost better homemaking practices in the state.

Miss Dowdy, a Oglethorpe County native, moved to Commerce at an early age. She holds degrees from Georgia State College for Women and the University of Georgia.

Schools Will Use TV To Ease Teacher Shortage, Dean Says

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 1—Schools will have to go to television and films to combat the classroom and teacher shortage, a Florida educator warned today.

Speaking to the Georgia Assn. of Supervision and Curriculum Development, Dr. J. B. White, University of Florida education dean, explained the increase of population.

"There won't be enough room in the schools or enough teachers for the kind of classroom curriculum we have now," he explained. He added this will "make movies and television necessary for teaching."

Dr. White suggested more emphasis on courses in photography, art, literature, geography, languages and human relations.

Suddenly DOVE makes soap old-fashioned!

New bath and toilet bar creams your skin while you bathe.

DOVE is one-quarter cleansing cream. It leaves your skin soft and smooth—without the dry feeling caused by soap.

Here is a remarkable new development—called DOVE. It looks like soap, and you use it like soap. But DOVE is a completely new formula.

One-fourth of every cake of DOVE is cleansing cream!

You can actually smell DOVE's delicious, creamy fragrance. One quarter of every cake is cleansing cream.

That's why you can wash your face as often as you like—when you change to DOVE. And your skin won't get the dry feeling that soap gives you. Because DOVE is milder than soap. Even milder than "baby" soaps. And 100 per cent neutral—like rain water. No wonder DOVE leaves your skin feeling soft and smooth.

DOVE also leaves your skin cleaner than any soap or cleansing cream. And a clean skin is a clear skin—glowingly fresh and wholesome—with every speck of grime and make-up removed. You're going to look so lovely and alive!

Quick, rich lather in all waters

DOVE bursts instantly into waves of the richest, creamiest lather you've ever seen. Even in the hardest water. How come? Because it contains an exclusive new lathering ingredient found in no other bath or toilet bar.

This ingredient gives DOVE an utterly new kind of lather. Thick, soft and snowy white. Like whipped cream. Very different from ordinary soap.

You get your money's worth

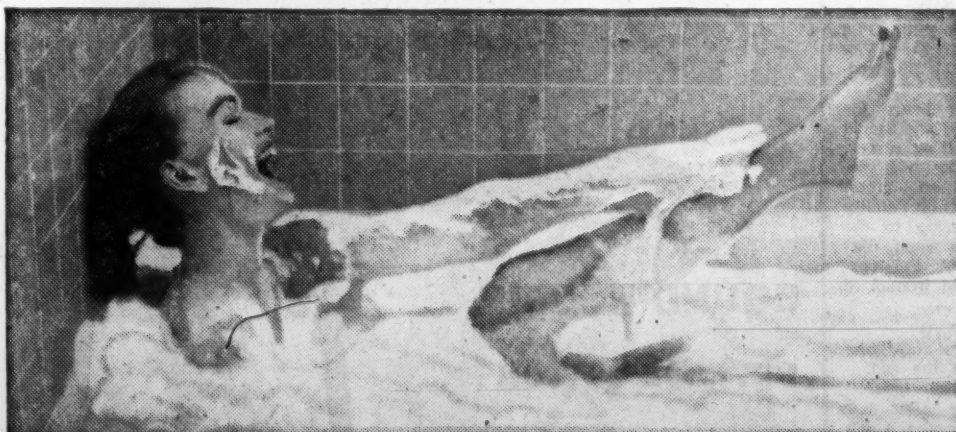

Consider what you pay for a jar of good cleansing cream.

Then remember that DOVE's remarkable lather cleans and creams at the same time. Naturally, DOVE costs a little more than commonplace toilet soaps, and it's worth it! You'll discover that with DOVE, everyday washing becomes "special occasion."

The makers of DOVE are none other than Lever Brothers—pioneers in the science of soap-making.

And Lever Brothers unconditionally guarantees that DOVE is better for your face, your hands, all of you, than regular toilet soap. If you don't agree—we'll give you back every penny you paid.

DOVE has a fascinating shape—sculptured to fit the hand. It comes in a glamorous blue and gold box. You can buy it today at any grocery store, drug store or department store.

DOVE TURNS A BATH INTO A BEAUTY TREATMENT

DOVE leaves your shoulders, arms, legs—all of you—feeling so cool, so soft, so feminine! And DOVE is delicately scented, to leave you smelling deliciously fragrant after your bath.

What's more, even in the hardest water, DOVE fills your tub with billowing, foamy suds—rich, snowy-white suds—turns your daily bath into a daily luxury.

DOVE IS ONE-QUARTER CLEANSING CREAM

You can smell the rich beauty-cream fragrance in every bar of DOVE. It's at least three times more creamy than any soap. DOVE is actually good for your skin.

DOVE

Soap dries your skin but DOVE creams your skin while you bathe

Tobe Says Shoes for Fall Point to Fashion

"Pointedly smart" is a complete two-word description of the new fall shoes. For pointed-toe shoes have swept the country in the last six months like wild fire! In my long career, I've rarely ever seen such a major and drastic change in fashion catch on so quickly.

A few weeks ago, I saw a survey made of women in key cities throughout the country and over 60 per cent of you said that it was the pointed-toe fashion that you noticed first, and almost as many said it would be the next shoe you would buy. Well there are hundreds of pointed-toe shoes for you to choose from this fall, so have a good time!

RESTLESSNESS IS CAUSED BY GROWTH
Baby's Sleep Patterns Change Frequently

Marcia Winn

Growth Causes Changes In Sleeping Routine

"My baby is six months old and suddenly doesn't want to sleep," a mother writes. "Is there some special procedure I should follow?"

Just use your eyes and common sense.

Your baby is 6 months old. Seemingly overnight an extraordinary change has come over him. He is alive. You will say indignantly that he has been alive all along and, of course he has, but the difference is that now he coordinates.

He is about to sit alone. He is cutting his first teeth. His chewing reflex has developed. He is able to hold an object in each hand—at the same time—and spends hours trying to bring the two together.

His eyes at last coordinate and focus clearly, making a world formerly dim and blurred now vivid and bright and tantalizing. He notices facial expressions, gestures and events around him.

HE'S GROWING

He is busy. He is growing. The baby who used to lie placidly on his back and catch sunbeams now wants to be propped up where he can see something other than a ceiling.

He isn't interested in eating the way he once was. He isn't interested in sleeping. He wants something to chew, something to hold and something to see. Unless these wants are met, he is a fine candidate for boredom. Put him to bed in the hope that he will sleep, and he will cry.

Many careful studies of babies' sleep have shown that the sleep pattern changes frequently during the first year of life. For each change, there is a cause. The cause usually is growth.

12 NAPS

Tiny babies may wedge as many as 12 naps into the 24 hours, the longest not more than four hours. A baby's first long sleep comes after he sleeps through his 2 a.m. feeding, usually when he is between 2 weeks and 2 months old. His first solid night's sleep comes after 6 months when he sleeps through his 10 a.m. feeding.

That is, he may sleep through it. If so, you're in clover. If he continues to want the milk, give it to him. It's his appetite, not yours, and a baby's activities through the first year of life is closely tied up with hunger.

The average baby of 6 months takes a long morning nap and a short afternoon nap.

Apron to Keep Apron Clean

VIENNA—The days for a visitor here in Dooly County fall into a pleasant pattern. You awaken early—at least I do—because you are, of all things, too cool. There's a momentary struggle with yourself over whether to get up and close the windows or get up and put on your clothes.

This is a swift and decisive inner battle for me that is easily settled by the incense of coffee drifting up from the kitchen downstairs. Hester, the small, cheerful Negro woman who has presided over Mrs. Nell Heard's kitchen for about 30 years (wearing a stocking on her head and two aprons—one to keep the other clean, of course) has coffee perking as early as 6 a.m. And it is the custom of the house for guests to wander back to the pantry and help themselves.

Then with your coffee cup you stroll about the garden, soaking your shoes in the springy, dew-wet sod, listening to the July flies tuning up in the trees and the big transport trucks growling and whining and snorting around the square.

The hotel and courthouse gardens run together here, making a cool, green harbor in the midst of the business district, the warehouses and the railroad tracks. Altheas and crape myrtles are blooming extravagantly now and in spite of the noonday heat—or maybe because of it—the rose garden is filled with young velvety buds which are, in the early morning, delicately touched with dew.

Somewhere in town a bell tolls the hour and somewhere a rooster crows. The street sweepers go by laughing at some private joke. A farmer with an empty pick-up truck rattles past toward the hardware store.

For a little while you sit, coffee cup in hand, half dreaming. And then the day's deadlines begin to nudge you. If you take a shower, write a story and get some breakfast now you might just make it to the drugstore before the day's fresh supply of boiled peanuts runs out. (Vienna is the only place I ever saw where the teen-agers gathering for their midmorning campaign against starvation and loneliness take their sodas, sundaes and shrill and happy conversation with a side order of boiled peanuts.)

You see the doctor to get the latest report on Sen. George's condition, and then if you hurry you might get to the coffee gathering at the Metropolitan by 9 a.m.

This coffee session is fascinating to me because of its variety. Our office sessions back in Atlanta show a poverty of freshness and originality by contrast because we all talk about the same thing—newspapering. Here a man reports that all the fish in a neighbor's pond have been killed by boll weevil dust, which was either washed down from the cotton plants by the recent rains or sprayed from the air by plane. Two women discuss preparation of food for the Farm Bureau meeting. Somebody gives a report on the Dooly County camp meeting which is in full swing.

And Miss Emily Woodward, one of the literary members of the group, mentions the amazing and scholarly feat of assembling Boswell's London Journal for the years 1762-1763, which she has been reading.

The session over the oilcloth-covered table lasts as long as anybody has time to linger. Some have to leave, but their places are taken by others. And it all reminds you a little of the aforementioned James Boswell's time. As the introduction to Miss Emily's book points out: "Boswell went to a coffee house not so much for coffee or tea as to read the newspapers, to talk politics and to listen to other people's conversation. A coffee house did service as a cheap club."

And so it does in Vienna. And if I don't hurry I'll be late for the call to order.

WINTERHALTER FAN LOOKS FORWARD TO CUTTING RECORDS WITH HIM
Boston Songstress Pat O'Day Was a Star in England Before She Knew Him

'Stupid-stitious' Girl Singer Takes '3 Roads' to Success

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A tantalizing thrush who took "Three Roads" to become one of America's top singing personalities is the "world's worst worrier."

And probably the music world's most "stupid-stitious" young woman.

Pretty Pat O'Day, the Boston lass whose current hit record, "Three Roads," is fast heading toward the top of hit lists throughout the country, worries about everything from fancied physical ailments to being a failure as a singer.

SYMPTOMS

She talks herself into all sorts of things, including symptoms of cancer and TB; the "very thought" of listening to her own records makes her sick. (For months, she didn't realize she was a favorite songstress in England with her waxings of "Dear John" and "Earth Angel" selling nearly a million copies each.)

And when it comes to superstitions—she believes in 'em all.

"I'm the most stupid-stitious person in the world," she admitted. "I believe in the bad luck of black cats, spilt salt—and all the others. Whenever I hear a new superstition, I start worrying about it."

SHUDDERS AT 13

The number 13 is the worst bad luck omen, Pat declared with a shudder. (She refused to elaborate, declaring it was too frightening to recall incidents when she was plagued by the numeral.)

She's also a "star-watcher," reads her horoscope faithfully. "And on the days it's a bad one," Pat said, "I stay at home—in bed—if I can."

Pat, who has never bought a record herself, cut her first disc while she was in high school. She recorded "Shanty in Old Shanty Town" and "Sweet Violets" for her parents' 25th wedding anniversary.

Until friends who heard the record convinced Pat she should concentrate on a singing career, the blue-eyed blonde was determined to become an actress. In fact, her dramatic ability won her a scholarship to the Pasadena Playhouse when, during her senior year, Pat portrayed an 80-year-old woman in "Royal Family."

"DIED AT THE END"

"It was a wonderful role," she recalled. "I died at the end."

"Oh, it was a beautiful finish!"

But three months after her graduation, she accepted a job as one of the country's first girl disc jockeys, which also afforded her the opportunity to sing during the daily Boston radio program.

SOLD 'GWTW' RIGHTS

Spry Literary Agent Stars at Workshop

By ELIZABETH MORGAN

Constitution Staff Writer

ATHENS, Aug. 1.—Short, spry Annie Laurie Williams—a literary agent with six sisters and a Texas birthright—went to New York alone when she was 17 years old.

She knew what she wanted—an acting career—and she worked hard. Besides acting and studying, Miss Williams wrote articles for the papers back home. But she finally started off alone again, this time to sell movie and drama rights for books.

Now the blue-eyed strawberry blonde Texan has a thriving agency in New York. The literary business is a family affair with Miss Williams, for her sisters, Pamela Barnes and Leone Gray, work there too. And her husband, Maurice Crain, directs his own literary agency in the office next door.

SOLD "GWTW"

Miss Williams sold "Gone With the Wind" to David Selznick for $50,000. At first, every studio in Hollywood turned it down, but Miss Williams pointed out that the public was buying the book, and she got the highest price that had ever been paid for movie rights.

This week Miss Williams is a star on the staff of the first Southern Writers Workshop being held at the Georgia Center for Continuing Education.

When Miss Williams started in the literary business, people told her she couldn't get anywhere in such a competitive field. But, she laughed, gleefully, "You don't listen to what people say if you think you can do something." She asked an established literary agent in New York for a desk and telephone—at no pay—and went to work.

"That way," she explained with a twinkle, "I could use the agency's name when I called on Hollywood producers."

WENT TO A DANCE

Somewhere in the middle of getting her own honest, solid reputation started, Miss Williams went to a dance at the Texas Club in New York. There she met a young man who also was sending newspaper articles back home to Texas. "We had common interests," commented Miss Williams, "and Maurice and I were married six months later."

They didn't have any money, but somehow they managed to live on their combined earnings from the newspaper articles.

Mr. Crain was a ball turret gunner on a B17 in World War II. He was shot down over Germany and spent two years in a German prison camp. One day fellow prisoners Donald Bevan and Edmund Trzcinski told him they wanted to write a play about the camp. Mr. Crain sug-

Food Show To Feature 6,000 Roses

Six thousand roses will be delivered to Atlanta's Municipal Auditorium Saturday morning, Aug. 3.

They will be flown directly from the grower's gardens in New York to make their United States debut here at the Atlanta Food Show which opens at 4 p.m. Saturday. The show will run through Wednesday.

The blossoms, all hybrid tea varieties, will be on display in an especially designed setting throughout the show in arrangements created by members of Atlanta garden clubs.

All will compete in the rose and sterling award section. Judging will take place prior to the show opening and official blue, red, yellow and white ribbons will designate the winners.

On display will be the silver prizes to be given winners.

gested they take it to his wife, and the play became "Stalag 17."

Miss Williams had an office waiting for her husband when he came home. He started handling books and articles, sold "Cheaper by the Dozen," and now the husband and wife team frequently collaborate.

"We stand on our own opinions," commented Miss Williams, "and sometimes we differ. But we like what we're doing and we handle only the manuscripts we believe in."

Dior Plays 20 Tricks With Daring Necklines

By CARRIE DONOVAN
(Copyright 1937 by The New York Times Co.)
PARIS, Aug. 1.—Dior left the hemline alone. The time all the furor centered on the hips and the bosom.

The waist slipped to hip level on coats, suits and day dresses. Necklines on cocktail dresses dipped down daringly to reveal most of the bosom, and skirts belled out widely around the hips.

Suit jackets and coats had fabric belts around this lowered waistline. They were unfitted above it, sometimes puffing out below it.

FABRIC SASH

One of the best was in bronzy tweed with a fabric sash that pulled through shirring around the hips, ending in a bow on the stomach. Deep tuxedo revers ended there, and below that the coat flared out to its three-quarter hem. Big, swinging, full coats indicated this hipline-waistline with tabs front or back. Slim coats emphasized it too, but in a more subtle way.

FOUR SILHOUETTES

The dresses were excellent. No matter what the fabric, almost every one was black. They followed four different silhouettes.

The "oval cut" was one. Here, the top of the dress, hanging straight from the shoulders, was bloused in gently to a hip seam. The effect was somewhat that of a thick woolen blouse tucked into a slim skirt, only the skirt has slipped down to the hips.

Other dresses were really just straight bags with hardly any fit at all. Still others were semifitted on top but flared stiffly out from hip to hem. The most fun were the snug-topped, stiffly bell-skirted ones.

18TH CENTURY

Dior's inspiration here came from the 18th Century French court beauties such as Marie Antoinette, Madame du Barry and Madame de Pompadour. He showed his bell-skirted dresses on two manikins, one blonde, one brunette, who looked like Dresden figurines, with telling effect. All these bodices were very taut but slightly elongated. The short skirts were rigidly belled or tremendously full.

The necklines were something to behold. Gasps went up from the audience more than once. It's incredible how many new variations on the daring neckline Dior thought up. There must have been at least 20, and no two alike. Each one showed more of the bosom than the one before.

SAUCY, NEVER VULGAR

Granted, these dresses were saucy, but they never were vulgar. They were all superbly cut and must be absolute marvels of construction inside. For evening, there were a lot of short gowns, many with coats to match, as everywhere. Among these was probably the most bristly dress to date, with a skirt made of two flounces of coarse black net over pink. As the manikin swept through the salons, she netted several reporters' pencils and narrowly missed drawing blood from several others.

One came away from the collection with the impression that every dress was black. On second thought, a sprinkling of reds, charcoal grays and shades of brown come to mind. But this season, M. Dior is definitely in the black.

WIFE FROM ICELAND ASSISTS HUSBAND
Mrs. Charles Jinks Jr. and Atlanta-born Husband.

Atlantan Reads Norse Books That Norwegians Can't Read

By MARGARET McLEMORE

Mrs. Olga Jenson Jinks can read books written by the Norse some 1,000 years ago—a trick the average Norwegian, a descendant of these ancient warriors, can't do.

The reason is simple, for this Atlantan by marriage is a native Icelandic and her people speak the identical language spoken in Norway back then. Olga also speaks English, Danish and Spanish fluently.

This shapely blue-eyed platinum blonde has traveled widely in many lands during her 25 years. She was educated in England; honeymooned in Europe and the Virgin Islands, and has lived in Miami and Ciudad Trujillo with her husband, Charles Jinks Jr., a native Atlantan.

CAME HERE AS A BRIDE

She first came here as a bride back in August of 1934 during one of the city's fiercest heat waves. "I didn't think I could stand it," she said.

The highest the temperature climbs during Iceland's brief summers is 65, she reported. Fifteen above zero is a common reading for the winter months.

The couple met at the Keflavik air base, which is outside Olga's home town, Reykjavik, capital city of Iceland. She was a secretary and Mr. Jinks was employed on an engineering job for the base.

"Please don't get the idea my home town is a barren place," she said. "Reykjavik has been a bustling modern city—especially since we became independent (from Denmark) in 1944," she added.

They're in Atlanta so Mr. Jinks may acquire a degree in mechanical engineering from Georgia Tech. The young Atlantan has been working on engineering jobs with the Aluminum Company of America in Ciudad Trujillo and for the tycoon Arthur Vining Davis in Miami.

Come graduation, Olga is prepared to take off again for foreign climes. "Both of us love to travel," she said.

MISS HOME COOKING

Next to missing her parents and relatives, Olga yearns for her native land's cooking. "I do miss fresh salmon, ptarmigan and svid. (Ptarmigan is an Arctic bird, and svid is a boiled sheep's head complete to its eyes.) Her husband, incidentally, never acquired a taste for his wife's Icelandic dishes.

Despite Olga's origin, she is as American as the girl next door. "I actually wasn't reared any differently from y'all," she said.

Yes, she says "y'all" (with just a trace of an accent), and like so many young wives here and elsewhere, she's working to help defray expenses for her husband's education.

Because the Druid Hills Golf Club is so proud of its brand-new gold and white decor, the entire club membership has been invited for a gala party tomorrow evening.

A buffet dinner will be served, and afterward there will be dancing on the terrace overlooking the swimming pool.

The ballroom and adjacent banquet room have been redecorated, air conditioned and supplied with acoustical tiles. In fact, all of the main floor has been refurbished, with the cocktail lounge featuring all new furnishings in a color motif of blue.

"We expect 400 to 500 guests," said the club president, Norman Williams, who will serve as official host with Mrs. Williams. "We are so proud of the way the club looks now we hope everybody will come to see it."

Taylor Tots' Tonsils To Tum Out Today

By MARJORY RUTHERFORD

GOING TO THE HOSPITAL is fun—especially if you have good company.

That's the view of Johnny, 8; Donald, 7; Llewellyn, 5, and Chuck Taylor, 3.

The Taylor tots will enter Georgia Baptist Hospital Friday morning and—assembly-line fashion—undergo tonsilectomies.

"I'll probably be put to sleep first because I'm the oldest," Johnny prophesied. "Chuck will probably cry because he's the littlest. But he'll be all right. The doctor has a six-bed ward reserved just for us, and they'll let Mother sleep there nights."

The quartet who will lose their tonsils today are children of Mrs. Norma Taylor, 3625 Pacific Dr., S.W. All had sieges of sore throats last winter. They want to be in top shape when older youngsters enter the third, second and first grades at Ben Hill Grammar School next month.

Photographer Bill Warren found the foursome trying on their

new pajamas Thursday. The boys and their sister "played hospital" for the photographer. (They're saying "Ah" here, and that's a tongue-depressor in Llewellyn's hand.)

"We need practice," Donald told his grandmother, Mrs. N. H. Hawthorne. "After all, we haven't been in a hospital since we were born. And I can't remember that!"

YOUNG MAN driving down Forsyth street in sports shirt unbuttoned all the way to show off multicolored tattooed lei of Hawaiian flowers adorning his neck and chest.

ONE OF ATLANTA'S FAVORITE MINISTERS, Dr. Charles L. Allen, acting as toastmaster at a recent dinner, totaled up for his audience the number of green peas he had consumed at church suppers, civic club meetings and public dinner parties over the years. He made it exactly 4,486,141½. "That half pea had me puzzled for a while," he added, "until I remembered the time they served split-pea soup in Albany."

Eberhardt, McCurdy Plans Told

VALDOSTA, Aug. 1—Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Eberhardt announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jan Eberhardt, to Lucius Howard McCurdy Jr., son of Mrs. Threiber John Mauf-ray of Pass Christian, Miss.

Miss Eberhardt received her Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Georgia where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority. For the past year she has been affiliated with the public schools of New Orleans.

Mr. McCurdy was graduated from Southern Methodist University with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree. He belongs to the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and the Alpha Delta Sigma business fraternity. He is presently attending law school at Tulane University where he is a

Needle Pricks His Sense of Humor

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

We are 16-year-old twin girls. Our father has a quick temper and Saturday night he really blew his top.

Eight of us—four boys, two other girls and my sister and I—were going out together. The girls and boys came to pick us up and we were all sitting around the living room.

My sister and I had been making some blouses during the day to wear that night. While the others were here Dad came in and sat down in the only empty seat in the living room. But he jumped right up again and started swearing because he had sat on a needle one of us had stuck in the chair while we were sewing.

When we laughed Dad just boiled and made a big thing of it. We couldn't help laughing, he looked so funny. But when we got home he told us he was "sick of having a bunch of smart-aleck kids around" and he said we cannot date for the rest of the month. We don't think he is being fair, do you?

I can sympathize with your father's physical injury, but it appears that his sense of humor was punctured, too. If there is any one thing a parent of teen-agers needs, it is a ready sense of humor.

At times even the best-natured parents may find it difficult to see the humorous side of a situation, but I think Dad is being unfair to say "no dates" because of what happened.

About all I can suggest is a bandage for his wounds and some soothing words for his feelings. Perhaps after he has had time to cool off and think things over, he will reconsider and lift the dating restrictions.

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am very much in love with a girl who lives about 300 miles away. We have been writing to each other for three years and have been together two or three times a year. About a year ago we stopped writing temporarily because we believed we were becoming too serious.

We are now freshmen in college. She is attending a school about 40 miles from here. I am sure she feels the same way I do, but I'm somewhat afraid to tell her I love her.

Should I tell her, or am I being too serious for a college freshman? I want to be sure to do the right thing for us both.

I can see nothing wrong in telling the girl you love her as long as you both realize the importance of finishing school, and are willing to wait until you graduate to be married—if that is what you eventually decide to do.

I realize there are many college students marrying before graduation these days and some have been able to make it work out successfully. But others find the going rugged and have to either fall back on their parents for financial help, or drop out of school—both of which are wrong in my opinion.

Why don't you see your girl and find out how she feels about the situation? If you are right in your belief that she loves you, you can talk about the future, but for the present my advice is to make no positive plans about marriage. Many unforeseen things can happen in three or four years.

Miss Yvonne Wright Weds Dr. Blake Bivins at Home

DUBLIN, Aug. 1—The country home of Miss Louise Wells and Mrs. Edna W. Martin formed the setting for the marriage of their niece, Miss Yvonne Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wright of Dublin, to Dr. Blake Stephens Bivins of Cochran, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bivins of Mt. Vernon.

Dr. Harold L. McManus of Macon officiated at the evening ceremony.

The bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta that was previously worn by her cousin, Mrs. G. W. Winkler of Boone, N.C., at her wedding.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of pearls and Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

At the reception which followed, Mrs. H. A. Bivins of Mt. Vernon kept the bride's book. Assisting in entertaining were Miss Joy Smith, Mrs. Ronnie Brunson of Pensacola, Miss Helen Jones, Miss Patsy Wright, Mrs. Jim Christian, Mrs. Harold L. McManus of Macon and Miss Lucy Jones.

The couple will reside in Cochran after their wedding trip.

Bottled in Barn

Judge Excuses His Last Fling As a Bachelor

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 1 (UP)—Clark Leffler, 30, nursed a hangover today and turned his thoughts again to his forthcoming marriage—interrupted briefly when he and five buddies were hauled into district court.

The "bachelor party" group whooped it so noisily yesterday that at one bar the band refused to play. Judge Robert Hansen let Leffler off with a suspended sentence because "it was his last fling before marriage." But his companions were fined $10 each.

Skelton Bristles at Critics Of Family's World Tour

LONDON, Aug. 1 (UP)—Red Skelton grimly told his newspaper critics and the British people tonight that "an actor does not publicize on death."

On British TV, Skelton gave a bristling defense of his role as a father concerned over his ailing son.

"I do not believe my son is going to die," he said. "I believe in God. I believe in the medical profession. I believe that an answer will be found."

"NAUSEATING JAMBOREE" Skelton has been criticized in some quarters for taking his 9-year-old son Richard on a world tour. The Daily Sketch described his news conference yesterday at the Savoy Hotel as "a nauseating jamboREE."

Skelton told televiewers: "I have great respect for the press, but naturally you will find certain people who get a rusty nail, dip it in venom and write. 'I thought it (The Sketch comment) was in bad taste. It was genuine journalism. High school children could write better than that.'"

ANSWERS BRISKLY He answered questions briskly, the famous wry grin only occasionally flitted across his face. His air was faintly defiant.

Red's son Richard has leukemia, for which there is no certain cure, but the boy and Red still have hopes.

Red said: "If I go out through the world and people can be told my son has something wrong with him, maybe some along the line will have the answer to the problem."

Richard, a mop-haired boy with freckles on his sunken cheeks, did not appear with his father. Nor did Red's wife or his 10-year-old daughter Valentina.

Skelton said he had signed more than 180,000 letters, working until 3 in the morning, in an effort to find a cure for his son. Two trunk loads of letters from sympathizers had been sent back to the United States for scrutiny, he said.

Asked if Richard's health was a threat to the family's happiness, he said simply: "I think it is a challenge, a challenge to courage."

A COOL DEAL—DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 1—With thermometers registering a sizzling 97 degrees, T. B. Brown, 78, and Mrs. Elizabeth Carner, 68, shed shoes and hose to play a quiet game of cards in the cool wading pool of a park here.

He Swims To Save a Purse; Gets an Earful as Reward

By MICHAEL JAMES

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—A young man dived into the Hudson River late Wednesday night to retrieve a woman's handbag. It contained savings bonds, postal certificates and bankbooks representing nearly $10,000. They were returned to the owner, who offered not so much as a word of thanks.

Jane Schofield, an attractive 20-year-old secretary, was strolling along the edge of the river during the warm evening in company of a friend, Rocco Barado, a strapping 27-year-old from Waterbury, Conn., who aspires to be an actor. Miss Schofield spotted the handbag bobbing in the water, and the couple followed it downstream for several blocks attempting to retrieve it with a stick.

"Somehow," Barado explained today, "the thing became dramatic—there may have been money in it."

The student of the drama then took his shirt and shoes off and dived into the river. He got the purse but lost his socks.

The black leather handbag, the couple said, contained the bonds, certificates and bankbooks, as well as a last will and testament. They were all in the name of Ethel Bidwell of 526 W. 112th St. The couple called police who confirmed that Miss Bidwell had reported the theft of the purse to them earlier that evening—although she had said that it contained $12 and "miscellaneous papers."

Miss Schofield and Barado then went to Miss Bidwell's sixth-floor walkup and rang the door.

Churchill's Blast at U.N. Reveals English Still Resent Suez Issue

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

The average Briton remains perfectly placid these days when you mention Yorktown or Buzz Bombs, but don't say anything nice about the United Nations in front of him unless you're ready for an argument.

He is still very sensitive over the fact that, because she is a reputable citizen of the free world, his country knuckled under to the U. N. General Assembly last fall in the Suez case, where immoral nations defy the organization with impunity.

Winston Churchill's attack on the U. N. Wednesday can be read against that background.

DAUGHTY WARRIOR
The dauntless old warrior thinks the organization he helped to start needs to revise its charter.

"It is anomalous," he said, "that the vote or prejudice of any small country should affect events involving populations many times its own numbers and affect them as momentary self-advantage may direct."

The question of weighting U. N. votes in proportion to the size of the members has been a live one ever since its conception.

In a democratic community, however, no one has ever found an acceptable means of weighting votes according to the importance or the comparable intelligence of the voters.

OPERATE AS BLOC

It is true that the small nations tend to operate as blocs in the U. N. Even the Scandinavians, endowed with great sincerity in the search for world peace, hold their four-power conference before each general assembly to reach joint decisions on the agenda.

The Asian-African bloc frequently lets prejudice against the West on powers rule their decisions on almost any topic. The Atlantic bloc usually operate as a bloc themselves.

Churchill has something, of

TCHAIKOVSKY'S "Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Minor" and RACHMANINOFF'S "Piano Concerto No. 2 in C Minor" performed by Edith Farnadi, piano, and Vienna State Opera Orchestra conducted by Hermann Scherchen. (Westminster.)

Considered both musically and technically, it is doubtful if this coupling of these favorites will be outdated anytime soon. This is the first time they have been put on a single LP, as far as this listener knows, and despite the squeezing the sound remains good near the spindle. When these concertos were released some time ago, one of the local hi-fi shops played one or the other almost continuously, which certainly attests to their sonic superiority. And this reissue sounds even better if possible. Highly recommended.

HIFI FEAST FOR ORCHESTRA—Eight selections performed by Philharmonia Symphony Orchestra of London conducted by Argeo Quadri. Westminster.

Here's a real bargain for hi-fi fans: these eight pieces were first released on two LPs, each of which cost the fancy price of $7.50. Now they are all on this single LP which sells at normal price. Included are Sorcerer's Apprentice; Danse Macabre; Bacchanale from "Samson and Delilah"; Chabrier's Espana and Marche Joyeuse; Mussorgsky's Iron Foundry and Revuelet's Sensemaya and Cuanhuahua.

BIZET'S "Carmen" Highlights sung by Geraldine Farrar. (Camden.)

Atlanta operators who heard the golden-voiced Farrar sing here with the Met in the 20s will be interested in this disc despite the fact the sound is not hi-fi. Another Met favorite of bygone days, Giovanni Martinelli, is also heard.

SOUTH SEA ISLAND MAGIC played by Frank Chacksfield and his orchestra. (London.)

This is about what you would expect: 14 selections including such old favorites as The Moon Song of Manakora, Sweet Lullaby, Song of the Islands and several songs with the word "Albany" in the titles. Nice, if you like this kind of music. Oh, yes, the front of the cover girl's dress comes down to here-ere!

DeKalb Expected To Hire Guide to Industry Growth

DeKalb County probably will hire a planning firm soon to help guide industrial growth.

Planning Commission Director Charles J. Alford Jr. said his group will meet Wednesday to select a firm to recommend to the County Commission. Bids are now being considered, he said.

Under the proposal the firm would be hired to develop "an organized program for guiding future growth and development of the industrial districts of the county." It would also help "promote the use of industrial lands through organizational and advertising media."

County Commission Chairman Claude L. Blount said Thursday the commission has not been advised of full details of the program, but that he believes it would be "worth while."

The plans call for the firm to analyze existing conditions of industrial areas and prepare maps showing land use and district lines, roads and railroads, streams, utility locations, existing structures, ownership of land, existing zoning, and geological formations. It would design industrial districts specifying street systems, railroad facilities and utilities, and plan protection for adjoining areas, such as screen plantings.

Blount said if the county were able to provide such information

806-Acre Ga. Ranch Sold for $125,000

QUITMAN, Aug. 1—G. C. Rodgers has sold his 806-acre cattle ranch, five miles north of Quitman on the Barwick road, to Asa Townsend of Felda, Fla.

Rodgers bought the property, known as the Old Briggman farm, from O. L. Ellis in 1951. The ranch now has 700 acres of permanent pastures. There are lakes, ponds, good fences, deep wells, a modern home, three tenant houses and other buildings. It is understood the property, including 300 head of cattle and all equipment, was sold for $125,000.

course, when he says U. N. justice for one should be justice for all. That means a rule of law, about which Secretary Dulles and many others have talked.

GOVERNMENT BY LAW

Neither Britain nor the United States, nor any other large nation, is yet willing to turn the United Nations into a government by law. For instance, none of them would give up the veto power in the Security Council, and the organization could never have been formed without it.

Some of these weaknesses in the U. N. can be changed only by evolution. If it were not for the conflicts that presently prevent full effectiveness of the U. N., the organization would not be so badly needed.

Britain, instead of being bitter over last fall's denunciation by world public opinion, should take pride in the national character that permitted her to get back in line after a serious mistake.

No Loot for the A's.

SPORTS FORECAST: The New York Yankees will win the American League pennant and greedily refuse to vote their Kansas City cousins (16-1) a deserved slice of the world series melon. . . Bobby Bragan will switch from orange to root beer, and Clyde King will switch from Hollywood to Pittsburgh next year.

Mayor Hartsfield won't spearhead a drive to build a new stadium. . . Danny Menendez's letters proposing a joint meeting between the Southern and Texas moguls will result in a waste of postage. . . Bobby Dodd will predict a so-so season for Georgia Tech. . . Wallace Butts will predict that, due to sophomores and untested transfers, it's impossible to predict how Georgia will fare.

Auburn will win the SEC football championship. . . Floyd Patterson will flatten Pete Rademacher, and Mike Jennings won't have any trouble with reporters wanting to watch TV fights with his boy. . . Georgia Tech will have a 7-3 record and play a return engagement in the Gator Bowl. . . The Crakers will win the Southern pennant, and Buddy Bates will juggle the batting order for the opening Dixie Series game. . . Marion Johnson will hook a two-pound bass. . . Hurricane Jackson will be permitted to "fight" until he sustains a serious injury.

Ted Williams will predict his retirement and play another season for the Red Sox. . . There will be no need to check Babe Ruth's 60-homer record to determine how many homers Mickey Mantle is off the pace. . . Rival Southeastern Conference coaches will file complaints with Bernie Moore about illegal recruiting tactics. . . Frank Sinatra will announce that he'd like to promote a fight.

—All-American Stephenson, Candidate Stacy

Charlie Hurth will decline comment on realignment in the minors. . . Earl Mann will make an all-out effort to land a Triple-A franchise, but the Crakers will play in the Southern again next year. . . Some writer (probably me) will write that more money is spent for hunting and fishing than all spectator sports combined. . . Don Newcombe will escape the horrifying ordeal of facing the Yankees in the world series, because Milwaukee will be playing the champs. . . Notre Dame will reside on the wrong side of the football tracks again. . . Pee Wee Reese will retire and manage a major league club. . . Clemson's Frank Howard won't call for an on-side kick-off during the forthcoming regular season.

Don Stephenson will repeat as an All-American center. . . Charlie Britt will live up to advance press notices as the finest sophomore quarterback Georgia has had in years. . . Brooklyn will move to Los Angeles, the Giants to Minneapolis and Cincinnati to Brooklyn. . . Billy Martin will shift his next birthday party from the Copa to some other niter. . . Dan Ferris will complain that he is tired of hearing complaints about the AAU, and the public will complain that they're tired of hearing about Dan Ferris.

Texas A&M will win the Southwest Conference championship. . . The Sporting News will run unprintable pictures of baseball players reading The Sporting News. . . Southeastern Conference athletic directors will meet and declare that nothing happened during a four-hour session. Ditto: Southern Association directors. . . The Yankees will make a 13-player deal with Kansas City. . . Patterson will continue to dodge Eddie Machen. . . Miss. State's Bill Stacy will make All-America.

—The Engel Handicap, Casey and Rock 'n' Roll

Pro football players will strike during the coming season. . . Frank Lane will offer the Yankees the McDaniel brothers for the Stadium, then recall that the Yankees don't own it. . . One of Joe Engel's birds will win the Joe Engel pigeon handicap. . . Jacksonville will shoot for an International League franchise and settle for a berth in the Southern. . . Northside will win the City League football crown, and lose to Richmond in the state playoff. . . North Fulton supporters will complain that Northside gets more publicity than North Fulton. Northside will complain that North Fulton gets more publicity than Northside.

Before the world series, Casey Stengel will again be proclaimed a genius, which he probably is. . . Confidential vs. the Hollywood Stars will be the most interesting game on the Coast this fall. . . Some sports writer (probably me) will write that Whit Wyatt taught Dick Donovan how to throw a slider. . . Cookie Lavagetto won't be named manager of the year, but he should be. . . Jack Tighe will get the boot at Detroit. . . Mothers of Little League players will say harsh things about coaches. . . Eddie Glennon won't tamper with any New Orleans players next season, because there won't be any. . . Milwaukee will padlock its Wichita shop.

Liz Taylor and Mike Todd will be photographed wrangling on the Riviera. . . Rock 'n' roll will fade out, thank goodness. . . Lew Hoad and Pancho Gonzales will conduct a phony feud during their tennis tour. . . Some writer (probably me) will predict that minor league baseball is doomed. . . Ned West will catch a two-pound bass. . . Jayne Mansfield will be photographed with Mickey Hargitay. . . Frank Broyles will break in with a break-even season at Missouri, which will be a whale of an accomplishment. . . The Southeastern Conference will refuse to hire a full-time publicity chief, despite the worst public relations set-up of any big time college outfit. . . The New York Giants will trounce the College All-Stars in a dull game. . . At least two wrestling champions of some variety will perform in Atlanta.

Hodges' Bases-Full Blast Sets Mark as Bums Win

Sandy Koufax Pitches Brooklyn To 12-3 Victory Over Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—Gil Hodges' record-setting grand slam home run today propelled the surging Brooklyn Dodgers and left-hander Sandy Koufax to an easy 12-3 triumph over the hapless Chicago Cubs.

Hodges' grand slam blast, the 13th of his major league career, broke the National League record of 12 shared by Rogers Hornsby and Ralph Kiner.

The victory, Brooklyn's 15th in 18 games with the Cubs this year, showed the third place Dodgers to within 1½ games of the National League lead. It was the 17th win in the last 23 games for the Brooks, a 739 clip.

On the negative side, Brooklyn's PeeWee Reese was hit on the neck by a wild throw as he attempted to make second base on a sacrifice bunt. The club trainer said the 38-year-old veteran would only have a bit of stiffness from the mishap. The red-hot Dodgers slammed four Chicago pitchers, including loser Tom Poholsky, for 18 hits. The Cubs committed six errors. Hodges, cracked a run-scoring single in addition to his 15th homer for five RBIs. Catcher Roy Campanella struggling with a .233 batting average, cracked three singles good for three RBIs.

Doby Belts Grand Slam Homer, But Nats Drop White Sox, 5-4

Roy Sievers Wallops 28th

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Larry Doby belted the first bases-loaded home run in four years today but it was wasted as the Senators surged back from a 4-0 deficit to beat the Chicago White Sox, 5-4, with the aid of Roy Sievers' 28th homer.

The defeat dropped the second-place White Sox four games behind the New York Yankees.

Chicago Falls Back 4 Games

Washington chased Harshman during a three-run uprising in the sixth. Lemon walked and Sievers cracked his fourth homer in four games and his 11th of the year against Chicago into the center-field seats.

With five games remaining against the White Sox, Sievers has a chance to break a major league record set by Lou Gehrig of the Yankees in 1936 when he hit 14 home runs against Cleveland.

Lions' Malloy On Reserve List For Hurt Knee

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP)—Rookie Gordon Malloy and John Gibbons were placed on the reserve list today by the Detroit Lions.

Malloy, a top Detroit draft choice and outstanding half-back from the University of Miami, was given permission to return to his Miami, Fla., home by Coach Buddy Parker. Parker said Malloy had a sore knee this morning and was advised to give up football by the doctors who examined him. The knee had been plaguing Malloy for more than two years.

Gibbons, a tackle from Southwest Texas State, asked for and was given permission by Parker to return to his home. No reason was given for his departure.

Parker said Malloy had a sore knee this morning and was advised to give up football by the doctors who examined him. The knee had been plaguing Malloy for more than two years.

Gibbons, a tackle from Southwest Texas State, asked for and was given permission by Parker to return to his home. No reason was given for his departure.

King Returns With Bang; Montag Raps 18th Homer

By AL THOMY

Something new, something old and some time borrowed from an undecided foul pop enabled the Atlanta Crakers to decision Little Rock, 8-7, Thursday night at Ponce de Leon Park before 2,111 patrons.

The something new came under the tags of Chick King and Billy Reynolds. King made his second debut for the Crakers with a home run and two singles, and three runs. Reynolds, inserted at first base,

Glynn Road Work Halted In Toll Bypass Dispute

BRUNSWICK, Aug. 1 (AP)—The State Toll Bridge Authority Thursday forced suspension of work on resurfacing old U.S. 17 because of signs advertising it as a bypass of the Sidney Lanier Toll Bridge.

Paving was ready to begin under a $125,000 county contract from the State Highway Department.

Herschel Griffin, executive clerk of the Glynn County commission, said the halt was ordered by the highway department.

Court Takes 4 Children From Mother

Fulton Juvenile Court has taken custody of four children whose mother faces trial on charges of soliciting for prostitution.

Judge W. W. Woolfolk ordered taking custody of the children for placement or adoption after hearing the charges against Mrs. Mary Helen Hambrick, 38, of 670 Washington St., S.W.

Mrs. Hambrick and Harvey S. Hester, 47, of 670 Washington St., S.W., face trial in Criminal Court on soliciting charges as the result of arrests made by Atlanta detectives on July 6.

Det. W. W. Gable testified the woman's home was kept under observation for two weeks. Gable said he was approached by Hester in front of the woman's home. He said Hester offered to let him have immoral relations with Mrs. Hambrick for $3.50 and a pint of wine.

Earlier in the case, Hester testified that the woman's husband, Henry Hambrick, had allowed him to have relations with the woman. He said she had one child by him.

Mrs. Hambrick admitted having relations with Hester and living with him but denied the soliciting charges.

When leaving the courtroom after the judge passed on the case, the woman told her husband, "I'll kill you if it's the last thing I do." She has four other children, two of whom are married and two living in the country.

A Tightening Of Voter's Test Is Urged by Saye

Dr. Albert B. Saye of the University of Georgia recommended Thursday that the standard 30-question voter qualification test be replaced with a comprehension test.

The noted political scientist told a committee studying election laws that the present test is "much too simple."

He suggested possible automatic qualification of applicants who could prove they had completed the seventh grade. The comprehension test would be given to other applicants.

Saye also urged that the language of the state's election laws be simplified and that present county boards of registrars should be replaced with a single registrar.

Series on State Industry Promotion Will Begin in Sunday's Big Paper

Here are some of the features you'll find in your Sunday issue of The Atlanta Journal and Constitution:

WHAT PROBLEMS CONFRONT GEORGIA INDUSTRY? ... Are the industrial development organizations in the state turning a deaf ear to the needs of local industry in their zeal to attract out-of-state capital? Atlanta Constitution Business Editor Jim Montgomery begins a series on the efforts of these groups to attract industry to Georgia, in Sunday's Atlanta Journal-Constitution, and continues them daily next week in The Atlanta Constitution.

SHE PAINTS A STRAIGHT LINE ... Miss Margaret May Swain, an Atlanta voice teacher, had a suppressed desire to see how center lines were painted. Miss Swain operated DeKalb County's new $7,000 center line machine for one mile, on Klondike road near Lithonia. Atlanta Constitution staff writer Charles Moore tells about Miss Swain's fulfillment to her Suppressed Desire.

DON'T BE A HYPOCHONDRIAC ... but do be aware of the common danger signals to your health. Atlanta Journal staff writer Edwina Davis tells what three Atlanta doctors diagnose from a combined total of 20 signals.

B47 Wing Tank Falls 1,000 Feet Into Cobb Yard

A heavy gasoline wing tank dropped about 1,000 feet into a Marietta woman's front yard Thursday.

The tank fell from a bomber that had just taken off from the Dobbins Air Force Base.

No injuries or damages were reported.

Officials at Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Marietta plant said the B47 had just been delivered to the Air Force and was en route to Shillings Air Force Base, Kan., when the tank came loose from the wing and plummeted down to the front yard of Mrs. Jesse Brooks, 108 Gann Rd., Marietta.

Williams Says He'll Padlock More Liquor Stores Today

No additional retail liquor stores were padlocked Thursday, but Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams said more will be closed Friday.

He stuck by an earlier estimate that the total closed may run as high as 100. He shut down 53 stores Wednesday. There are about 1,100 in the state.

Williams said he had been holding conferences with store owners Thursday. He said he was allowing them the same opportunity he extended to wholesalers to settle the problem without prosecution.

All of the state's 34 wholesale houses were padlocked for a week until Williams said he was convinced they would "stay in line" with pricing regulations.

The commissioner said retailers were being closed down when audits of wholesalers' records indicated retailers were repeatedly violating department regulations.

Ray Moore Bringing Atlanta-Filmed Show

By PAUL JONES

Ray Moore is certainly one of the most industrious personalities on TV.

Most of you are familiar with the Ray Moore who described the ball games a couple of years ago, and most of you know the Ray Moore who clowns about on the weathercasts each night.

But, few of you are aware of the Ray Moore who has a more serious side. Ray Moore, the writer, narrator and producer, will be introduced to the TV audience Sunday when Channel 2 presents the first in a series of "The Road Back" shows.

This series of programs, which will deal with the problems of rehabilitating un-wed mothers, criminals, alcoholics, the insane and others, is the brain child of the personable Moore. His curiosity and studiousness have resulted in a show which will, in all probability, win an award for excellence.

When you are watching the opening show—the one dealing with life behind the gray walls of the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary—Sunday on WSB-TV, keep in mind that the show was written, filmed, and produced within a week—a week which preceded Ray's wedding day.

During the time he was working on this film, Ray did not see his bride-to-be because he was busy almost around the clock. He says he often left White Columns as the regular staff was coming to work in the morning.

In the film Ray depicts life behind the walls, and he talks with some of the prisoners who have a chance to tell their stories.

It is a story of hope and inspiration. . . .

RAY SAYS HE got the idea for the show about three years ago when he was "pushed into" visiting the prison by some friends who had come to Atlanta.

"My eyes were opened," Ray says. "I had some preconceived notions about what life was like in a prison, but they were all wrong. The atmosphere there is bright and sunny, the prisoners walk about freely, and the vocational training program beats anything you've ever seen."

After visiting the prison, Ray asked the warden to let him do a show similar to "The Road Back" opener. He was turned down. But Warden Fred Wilkinson, who has since come to the prison, granted his permission and gave Ray all the assistance he needed. Chaplain H. Park Tucker, who was featured on "This Is Your Life," assisted Ray in putting the show together, knowing full well that once the people on the outside know the story of the great prison, they may help to rehabilitate the prisoners when they earn their freedom.

This, after all, is what "The Road Back" is striving for.

AN OAKWOOD reader writes: "In reading today's (July 29) paper I found your version of 'I'll Be All Smiles Tonight.' Here's the way I always heard it:

"I'll deck my brow with roses, my lover may be there. The gems that others gave me shall shine upon my hair. And even those that know me shall think my heart is light."

Tho my heart may break tomorrow, I'll be all smiles tonight.

And when the room he enters, his bride upon his arm, I'll stand and gaze upon him as tho he were a charm.

As now he smiles upon her, so once he smiled on me, They'll know not what I suffer, they'll find no change in me."

This is the second version of that song. Others will follow.

Live Musicals for Fall Star Rosemary Clooney

By VAL ADAMS

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—Rosemary Clooney will be the star of a live musical program to be televised next season on Thursdays from 10 to 10:30 p.m. over the National Broadcasting Co. network.

The singer now appears on a agreed to purchase full sponsorship of the singer's program on Saturday night. Later it bought the Walter Winchell File and cut the Mitchell sponsorship in half. When Revlon reconsidered and dropped the singer's show entirely, the other cosmetic company took the program for a time period it already had purchased.

ABC-TV has not decided what new program to present on Saturdays from 10 to 10:30 p.m. A second television sponsor has agreed to ride with Omnibus in the move from ABC to the National Broadcasting Co. network.

Aluminum Limited, the Canadian company, will share sponsorship with Union Carbide Corp. Omnibus, which left ABC last March, will be presented by NBC on alternate Sundays from 4 to 5:30 p.m. beginning Oct. 20.

Peggy Wood, who gained television fame in the title role of Mama, will co-star with Chill Willis in a pilot film titled "Min and Bill."

The film is the first of a proposed series that would be produced by MGM-TV.

Annexed Group Sues To Quit College Park

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Residents of an area annexed this year to College Park asked Thursday that the annexation act be held unconstitutional on grounds that College Park officials "deliberately misled" them and Fulton County legislators.

The residents were granted an order by Superior Court Judge Jesse M. Wood restraining the city from exercising any municipal function, including fire and police protection, over the area until further order of the court.

The suit was filed by George C. Panlos, William M. Head and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Summers, who were listed as residents of the area. Named defendants were College Park Mayor J. W. Stephenson Jr. and all six council members.

"WELL KNOWN" The suit contends that although the officials "well knew" that a majority of the residents of the area opposed any annexation, they went to the legislative delegation during this year's session of the General Assembly and represented that the residents favored the move.

The petition contends city officials published "deliberately misleading" advertisements about their intention to seek local legislation. It says the advertisements referred only to intentions to annex a portion of Clayton County and did not mention Fulton.

Captain of the bill, the petition alleges, was "specifically in disagreement with the body of the bill itself."

"ABRIDGEMENT OF RIGHTS" "To allow such a method of annexation to stand," the petition said, "is a prejudice to every citizen in this area and an abridgment to their constitutional rights."

Judge Wood set a non-jury hearing on the petition for 9:30 a.m. Sept. 13.

Attorneys Wendell Helton and Sidney Schell, who represent the petitioners, said although only four plaintiffs are listed, the suit was filed on behalf of 95 per cent of the residents of the area, who oppose the annexation.

Freight Rate To Rise 5 Pct. In Georgia

A five per cent increase on rail freight rates within the state was granted Thursday by the Public Service Commission.

The PSC also approved the Central of Georgia's request for permission to close a station at Mansfield, in Newton County. It denied similar requests for stations at Davisboro, in Washington County, and Bartow, in Jefferson County.

The freight rate boosts will cost shippers about $600,000 a year. They apply to all 35 roads in Georgia and will go into effect in about 10 days.

The increase is similar to one granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission for interstate routes last February.

In Georgia, the following goods are expected from the increase: cotton and textiles, fertilizers, agricultural limestone, insecticide, scrap iron, sand, gravel, crushed stone, some clays and shale, and textile wastes.

State System Construction Bonds Stalled

Issuance of some $12 million in bonds for university system buildings still will have to wait for a more favorable market.

That was the apparent agreement reached by members of the Board of Regents, state and private fiscal officials and legal officers in a conference with Gov. Griffin Thursday.

The group spent an hour and 45 minutes in the governor's office discussing the situation. The regents are believed to be anxious to go ahead with the issue, which already has been delayed once by market difficulties.

Griffin said the bonds will be issued as soon as possible but said it was difficult to tell how long that would be.

Carolínians Bid Low on Capitol Job

The contract for a major remodeling of the Georgia Capitol apparently was won Thursday by a North Carolina firm which has built three major state office buildings.

Thompson & Street, Inc., of Charlotte entered a base bid of $1,358,000 on the project. That was the apparent low bid.

The firm already has constructed the new agriculture, judicial and labor and office buildings. It is also the contractor for the highway building annex and state farmers' market which are now under construction.

Repairs on the Capitol include a new dome.

At one time, plans included gold leaf for the rounded portions of the dome. These plans now have been dropped, however, Secretary of State Ben Fortson Jr. said.

Other work includes a new ground floor entrance, an additional elevator, and extensive remodeling of third and fourth-floor office space.

Fulton Contract Is Signed for Fairburn Mains

A contract covering extension of Fulton County water mains into the City of Fairburn has been signed by county commissioners.

The agreement, similar to one already signed with Fairburn, specifies that Fairburn will pay 7 cents per thousand gallons for water used. The water will come from the county's south Fulton main system. It is being supplied by the City of Atlanta.

Public Works Director A. T. McDonald said the county hopes to be able to supply water to Fairburn within three months.

Banana Was Loaded, Frisky Monkey Finds

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Aug. 1 (UP)—The little zoo monkey who got away and delighted the children of Bever Park looked wistfully through bars again today.

The frisky simian gave his keepers the slip Wednesday. When he tired of swinging from tree tops, he came to eat food children left for him on the neighborhood lawns. He spotted a banana in a wire cage. As he went to grab it, a Bever Park resident slammed the gate shut, and that was the end.

NEW MARSHALS CONGRATULATED—Marshall T. J. Grogan of Fulton Civil Court, center, who is retiring Aug. 31, gives congratulatory handshakes to Homer A. Spruill, right, who has been elected to succeed him, and to Hulton R. Cawthon, picked to step into Spruill's job of chief deputy marshal on Sept. 1. The two men were selected Wednesday by civil court judges from a list of 20 applicants.

Fight Leaves Blade in Skull

A DeKalb County Sanitary Department worker was bound over to the Fulton County Grand Jury Thursday on a charge of assault with intent to murder another Negro who had a knife blade broken off in his skull.

A First Class Mother Needs 10, Reds Say

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 1 (UP)—Mothers in Communist Czechoslovakia today have a harder time earning the honor badge for big families than German mothers did in Hitler's time.

The recently-passed Czech law of honor badges for mothers specified the first class medal will go to mothers of 10 or more children.

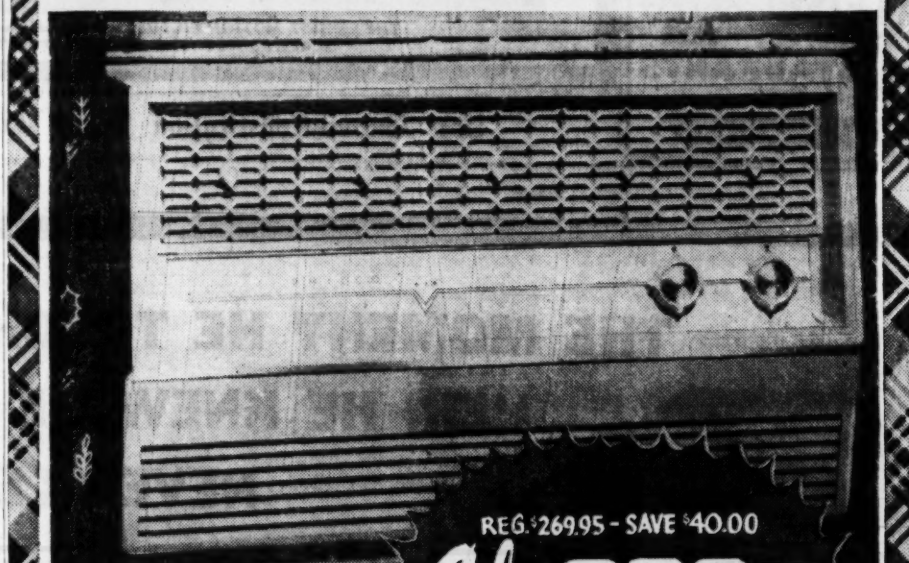

Radio Free Europe reported, Hitler bestowed his first class badge on mothers of eight or more.

Civil Court Judge J. Wilson Parker ordered the bind-over on Herman Baccus, 22, of Oxford, following a hearing on a criminal warrant taken out by Lucile White, sister of the stabbing victim, Jimmy Lee White, 28, of 365 Capitol Ave., SW.

Det. J. G. Adams testified White was stabbed Saturday in an argument. He said White was operated on at Grady Hospital Wednesday in an attempt to remove the blade but added that physicians have been unable to extract it. White is reported to be in "poor" condition.

Amazing New Wonder Drug Tablet For Fat People, acts directly on the cause of your overweight.

Yes, it's here at last! After years of intensive medical research, hospital tests, doctor use and clinical studies, we can now release it for the first time—the amazing new safe, approved, remarkably quick-acting NO-DIET miracle reducing drug for fat people! Imagine! If you're normally healthy, now you can lose up to 60, even 70 pounds without ever being hungry...

without torturing yourself with cruel diets... even without giving up your favorite foods! You lose up to 6 pounds the first few days—up to 10 pounds the first week—OR YOU PAY NOTHING. Yes, this amazing NO-DIET miracle reducing drug for fat people MUST work for you—OR YOU PAY NOTHING!

WHY IT MUST WORK FOR YOU—NO MATTER WHAT YOU HAVE TRIED

Here are reasons, unquestionable facts straight from the shoulder. Unless you have Super Will Power... love to torture yourself... hate the sight of food... have a nurse or dietitian available to you at all times... YOU CAN NEVER REDUCE TO YOUR SATISFACTION with the ordinary reducing methods you are familiar with. If you have used them yourself, you know from personal experience that this is a sad but bitter fact. You know how difficult, even impossible it is to reduce with just fast diets, hunger strikes, laxatives, exercise, steam baths, massage... so-called reducing candles, cookies, chewing gum, powders and bulk-producing pills. They did nothing but try to give you some moral support while you tortured yourself, exerted all your will power or starved until you could no longer stand it. You used the methods because that's all there was available to you unless you went to see your doctor.

On the other hand, doctors avoid most of these difficult or ineffective reducing plans. They prescribed drugs for reducing... such as amphetamines or thyroid which could be used only under close medical supervision. They worked where everything else failed... ugly fat just melted away! But unfortunately because of the harmful side effects they were only available with a doctor's prescription. Doctors felt they were on the right track with these drugs because of the fantastic results. Now they had to develop or discover a drug that had a similar action but without the harmful side effects. A drug that was safe enough for all normally healthy fat people to take without constant supervision... without the need of a doctor's prescription. Research specialists, medical technicians worked for years to discover such a drug. And they finally were successful... but to be absolutely sure it would work safely, they had leading hospitals, clinics and individual doctors test it and prove it for years. When the final results came in, they knew they had truly a WONDER DRUG FOR FAT PEOPLE.

3-WAY ACTION MAKES IT EASIER AND FASTER THAN EVER BEFORE TO LOSE UP TO 40, 50, EVEN 70 POUNDS

Doctor's know what's good for you. They know all the different methods to reduce—the scientific way to attack excessive weight. 3. They work fast... in less than a minute they start to act on your body, traveling through the bloodstream... and automatically you lose the TREMENDOUS URGE TO EAT! It feels so natural. No more need for Super Will Power... no struggle with self-control! You continue to eat the same delicious

MOVIE REVIEW

Action-Packed Western Stars Stewart, Murphy

James Stewart and Audie Murphy are engaged in a real fine western this week at Loew's entitled "Night Passage."

The saddle-sore heroes of atonances of Stewart, Murphy, Dan Duryea and Brandon DeWilde are good enough that you will enjoy the film to the fullest.

Murphy's part is possibly his best to date. This is his first start as a bad man and he comes through with a characterization which is apt to place him on the wrong side of the law again and again. Duryea's character study is a peach. His dialogue enables him to get off some extra good scenes.

The film has lots of comedy relief to season the rough stuff. And, if you don't care for action or laughs, possibly the spectacle of the picture will please you. It's entertainment for the family.

—PAUL JONES.

This plot may not sound original, but westerns never seemed to thrive on originality. The dialogue is novel enough to give it a new sparkle and the performance.

NEW STATE FFA PRESIDENT SHOWS OTHER OFFICERS HOW TO USE GAVEL
(L-R) Bloodworth, Davis, Stone, Cone, Howell, Bell, Harris

Perry's Stewart Bloodworth, 17, Heads Georgia's Future Farmers

COVINGTON, Aug. 1.—Stewart Bloodworth, 17, of Perry Thursday was elected president of the 18,000-member Future Farmers organization of Georgia.

He succeeds Jim Thomas of Patterson, who was awarded a four-year, expense-paid scholarship to college by a "friend" of Future Farmers of America.

Other officers named at the last day of the annual convention held at the FFA-FHA camp near here were:

Johnny Stone of Hogansville, Jerry Davis of Athens, Bobby Cone of Soperton, vice presidents; Tony Howell of Bainbridge, secretary, and Russell Harris of Lafayette, treasurer. Roger Bell of Savannah will serve as reporter.

Also Thursday, a new granite veneer cottage was dedicated at the camp and forestry award winners were announced.

J. R. Lientz, vice president of the Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp. of Savannah, which provided funds for the building, turned the keys over to retiring president Thomas and FFA President Joyce Crider of Elberton. The cottage is the second structure dedicated at the camp in the drive to raise $200,000 for improvements.

Following the cottage dedication ceremony, Jim Thomas presented Leintz the honorary Georgia Planter Degree.

Winning forestry awards were Johnny Dekly of Statesboro, first place; Mike Brown of Soperton, second; Roger James of Homer, third.

The announcement on the college scholarship for Thomas stated that the "friend of FFA" who asked not to be named, was making the award because of the initiative and determination that the retiring FFA president has shown during his membership in the organization.

It pointed out that Thomas lost the state public speaking contest three times before winning it and lost on his first try for a state officer position but came back in the second year and was elected president.

The announcement added that throughout his membership in the Future Farmers organization he has displayed the same type of determination.

A candle-lighting service ended the four-day convention for the FFA'ers Thursday night.

Soil Bank's End Forecast By Campbell

Constitution State News Service
AMERICUS, Aug. 1.—Georgia's Commissioner of Agriculture Phil Campbell foresees an end to the national soil bank plan within another year, he told members of the Americus Rotary Club in an address here.

The state official said that the overall plan has only succeeded in a transfer of problems for the farmer, that if continued it will "buy the farmers out of business."

He pointed out that farmers who were forced to curtail their production are switching to other concentrated forms of farming and that it is resulting in an overproduction of foodstuffs, thus bringing prices down.

Campbell visualized a new farm program whereby there would be an allotment for reeds of the United States with the production above that need being sold on the world market.

He believes that this would most benefit the small farmer. He charged that Washington policy has prevented the sale of farm products on the world market in the past few years.

While praising the great diversity and production capacity of Georgia agriculture, Mr. Campbell said that in the future more stress will be placed on quality. He said Georgia farmers are at the crossroads of quality products and that in order to compete with other areas producing the same foodstuffs greater emphasis will be put on this in years to come.

On the question of industry vs. agriculture, the commissioner reported that far from driving the farmer out of business, industry has tied to be of great benefit.

He said that in North Georgia industry played a great part in saving the farmer by providing an outlet for farm products.

Today he says the farmer who has outside income such as in industry enjoys a more abundant life usually than the individual who depends solely on agriculture.

Lawson Warns
'Ominous Cloud
Of Civil Rights'

DALTON, Ga., Aug. 1 (UP)—Roger H. Lawson, candidate for governor in 1958, praised the growth of Georgia today in an address before the North Georgia Electric Membership Corp. but warned that civil rights legislation in Congress is an "ominous cloud hanging over Georgia."

"As you are well aware, this vicious legislation is being fought with all the combined skill and energies of 18 southern senators led by the greatest senatorial team in the nation, Richard B. Russell and Herman Talmadge," Lawson said.

"It is the duty of every Georgian to offer his services, and he in readiness night and day to resist these continuing and ever widening encroachments by the federal authority on state sovereignty," he said.

Lawson said Georgia "needs continuing strong leadership as displayed by Gov. Marvin Griffin and Sens. Russell and Talmadge."

Senate To Consider Extending Small Business Agency Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—The Senate unanimously agreed tonight to consider tomorrow a one-year extension of the federal Small Business Administration, which expired at midnight yesterday.

Majority Leader Johnson (D-Tex.) obtained approval of actions that virtually assure a one-year extension.

This involved waiver of the usual one-day delay in acting on the emergency measure, a one-hour limit upon debate, and a vote on the extension sometime tomorrow.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore.), who previously had threatened to block such action, said he agreed to it because the Senate had set a time for voting on the one-year extension. Senate leaders have promised to consider the House-passed permanent measure before the year expires.

Under the agreement worked out between congressional leaders the House will quickly consider the Senate one-year extension.

Tobacco Prices Lower
On Flue-Cured Markets

By The Associated Press
Tobacco prices eased lower Thursday on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured markets.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture said representative grades for the most part were off one to three dollars per hundred pounds from Wednesday. Poorest qualities of lugs, primings and nondescript ranged from four to seven dollars lower.

This was the first day since the opening on July 18 that the market as a whole has shown a definite downward trend. Most Georgia markets reported medium to heavy volume. Lower quality offerings made up a larger percentage of sales than the day before.

Volume Wednesday totaled 8,384,826 gross pounds and the average was $57.46 per hundred. This was 2.6 million pounds below Tuesday turnover and the smallest since the second day of sales. The average dropped 99 cents for the first loss of the season.

Through Wednesday season gross sales stood at 95,636,860 pounds averaging $56.58. The season will end on the five Florida markets along with Hahira and Quitman, Ga., Friday, August 2.

Auction bid averages per hundred pounds on a limited number of U. S. grades follow:

Good orange 63, down 1; fair lemon 62, down 1; fair orange 63, down 1; low lemon 60, down 1; low orange 61, down 1; poor orange 58, unchanged; poor medium green 52, down 1; lugs: good orange 61, unchanged, fair lemon 58, unchanged; fair orange 58, down 1. The girl, Ellen Kruse, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kruse, Colon, Neb., suffered gashes on her left leg and forehead when the beast swiped at her with its paw. Hospital officials said the child was not seriously injured and would be released tomorrow morning.

Choose Sandwiches To Freeze for Future

When you are making a batch of sandwiches, it's a good idea to put away some for safe keeping. And the safest place is in the freezer.

Some sandwiches take to freezing better than others. But there are fillings enough that freeze well so that the sandwich variety need never run low. For best bets, use sliced or ground meats, fish, chicken, peanut butter and cheeses.

Getting sandwiches ready for the freezer is fairly simple, but there are a few precautions. It's important to spread both slices of bread generously with butter or margarine. This keeps fillings from seeping into the bread, making it soggy. Avoid using mayonnaise or salad dressing as spreads. When frozen, they separate and soak into the bread.

Crisp vegetables such as lettuce, tomato, celery and carrots should not be used in fillings for frozen sandwiches. When frozen they lose their crispness and change flavor. Add these vegetables just before serving the sandwiches.

Most sandwiches thaw in about two hours. They may be packed in a picnic basket or lunch box straight from the freezer. And they are just right to eat after two hours.

Cake frosting, barbecue sauce or even ice cream in a pressurized can may soon be a reality.

A leading can company predicts we will see these and other such miraculous things in the very near future.

Catsup, chocolate syrup, sundae toppings, maple syrup, meat sauces, mustard and salad dressings may also be available to be "shot" from cans.

Desserts That Are as Easy as Pie Designed for Cool Summer Dining

Summer with all its delights has a few drawbacks. It's not very conducive to turning out full course meals topped off with time consuming desserts.

But with a little imagination desserts can get pretty fancy without going near the oven or taking very much time.

A favorite all year round is pie, and here's how to start with a simple cracker crumb crust and a variety of the pie fillings and come up with practically a week's supply of summer supper finales.

CRACKER CRUMB CRUST

1 1/2 cups vanilla wafer crumbs (18 crackers)
1/4 cup butter melted
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup sugar

Mix crumbs and sugar and stir in melted butter. Combine ingredients lightly with a fork. Outline a pie pan by pressing crumb mixture firmly with the back of a spoon. Chill for about 30 minutes.

CHOCO-WHIP FILLING

1 tbs. gelatin (1 envelope)
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs, separated
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla flavoring

Soften gelatin in cold water and set aside. Mix boiling water and chocolate in top of double boiler until mixture is smooth; add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved.

Remove from range and add slightly beaten egg yolks, 1/2 cup sugar, salt and vanilla. Beat thoroughly. Cool mixture until it begins to thicken; beat egg whites until foamy; beat in remaining sugar gradually.

Pretty Sandwiches Grace Summertime Served Plain, Fancy

By JEANNE HIGGINS DEAVER

Constitution Food Editor

Sandwiches and summertime make a perfect match. And paired off with something cool to drink, sandwiches go good at lunch, supper or in-between.

The sandwich, after all, was the first convenience item that people thought of. And they've stayed so popular that August is celebrated annually as national sandwich month.

A sandwich is no longer something between two slices of bread like the original one. In fact they can get so fancy that they are actually tedious to prepare.

The sandwich tray is simply a wide array of cold cuts with a sideboard of crisp relishes and extras. A variety of different kinds of breads makes sandwich assembling more interesting.

The big beautiful frosted loaf goes together very quickly. And the filling, chicken spread, ham spread and a unique vegetable mixture, can be made the day before. In fact, the loaf can be prepared a day ahead if stored in a waxed-paper-lined covered box in the refrigerator.

FROSTED SANDWICH LOAF

Make with one large loaf unsliced white bread and the following fillings.

CHICKEN FILLING

1 can (3 ounces) chicken spread
2 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
3 tbsps. mayonnaise
1 tsp. prepared mustard

HAM FILLING

2 cans (3 1/2 ounces each) deviled ham
2 tbsps. pickle relish
2 tbsps. mayonnaise
1 tsp. prepared mustard

VEGETABLE FILLING

1/2 cup finely chopped cucumbers
1/2 cup shredded carrots
2 tbsps. chopped scallions
1/4 cup sour cream
1/2 tsp. dill seed (optional)
Salt and black pepper to taste

CHEESE FROSTING

1 pkg. (8 ounces) cream cheese
1/4 cup light cream
1 tbsps. chopped chives

In separate bowls, combine ingredients for each of three fillings. Soften cream cheese with light cream; add chives. Trim all crusts from bread; slice loaf lengthwise into 4 even slices. Spread each slice with butter and one of the filling mixtures; arrange layers on top of each other and cover with fourth slice. Spread top and sides of loaf with cheese frosting.

Place loaf in refrigerator for several hours or overnight. Garnish with radishes and olives. To serve, cut into thin slices with a sharp knife. Makes 10 servings.

A homemade sweet bread makes a sandwich that could easily be a conversation piece. Here's one made of a tasty orange bread with nuts and dates added. Fill the sandwiches with anything you like. It's particularly good with cream cheese, jelly, butter or a combination.

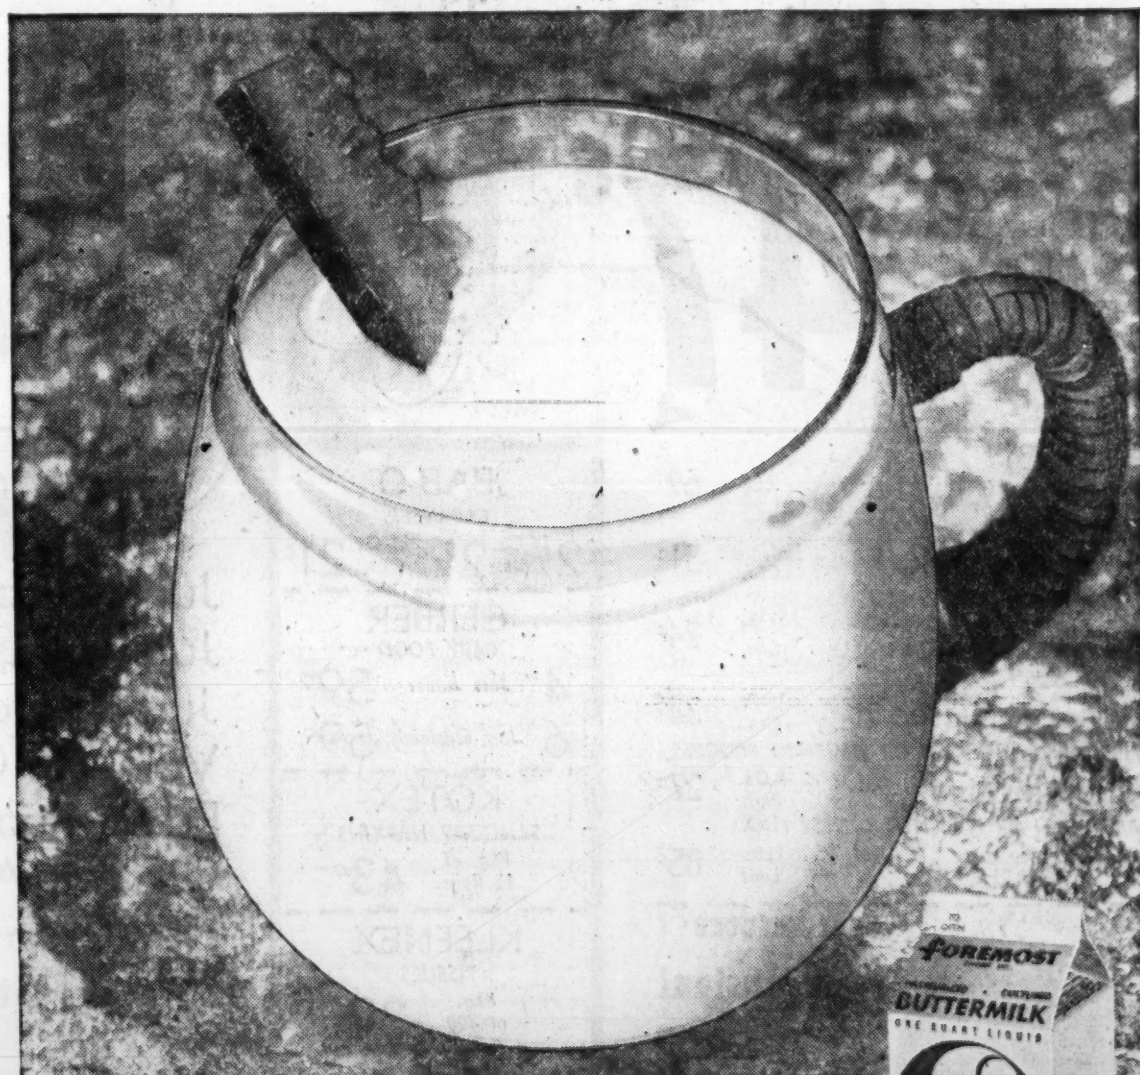

ORANGE BREAD

1 medium orange
1/2 cup dates, pitted
1/2 cup walnut meats
2 tbsps. butter, melted
1/2 cup hot water
1 egg, beaten

Cut whole orange (peel and pulp) into 6 to 8 sections. Put orange sections, dates and nuts through food chopper. Add to hot water and butter. Pour in well-beaten egg. Sift flour, salt, baking powder, soda and sugar; add to fruit mixture. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 1/4 hours.

FOREMOST GOLD NUGGET BUTTERMILK

Is rich in flavor—but not in calories!

COOL IDEA! Fill a mug with Foremost Gold Nugget Buttermilk, add a pinch of onion salt or curry powder—and tuck in a swizzle stick of crisp, cool cucumber!

If you're counting calories—this is for you! If you just plain love buttermilk—this is for you! And even if you're not a buttermilk fan—this is for you!

For Foremost Gold Nugget Buttermilk is a completely different kind of buttermilk—smoother, tangier, richer than any brand you've ever tried.

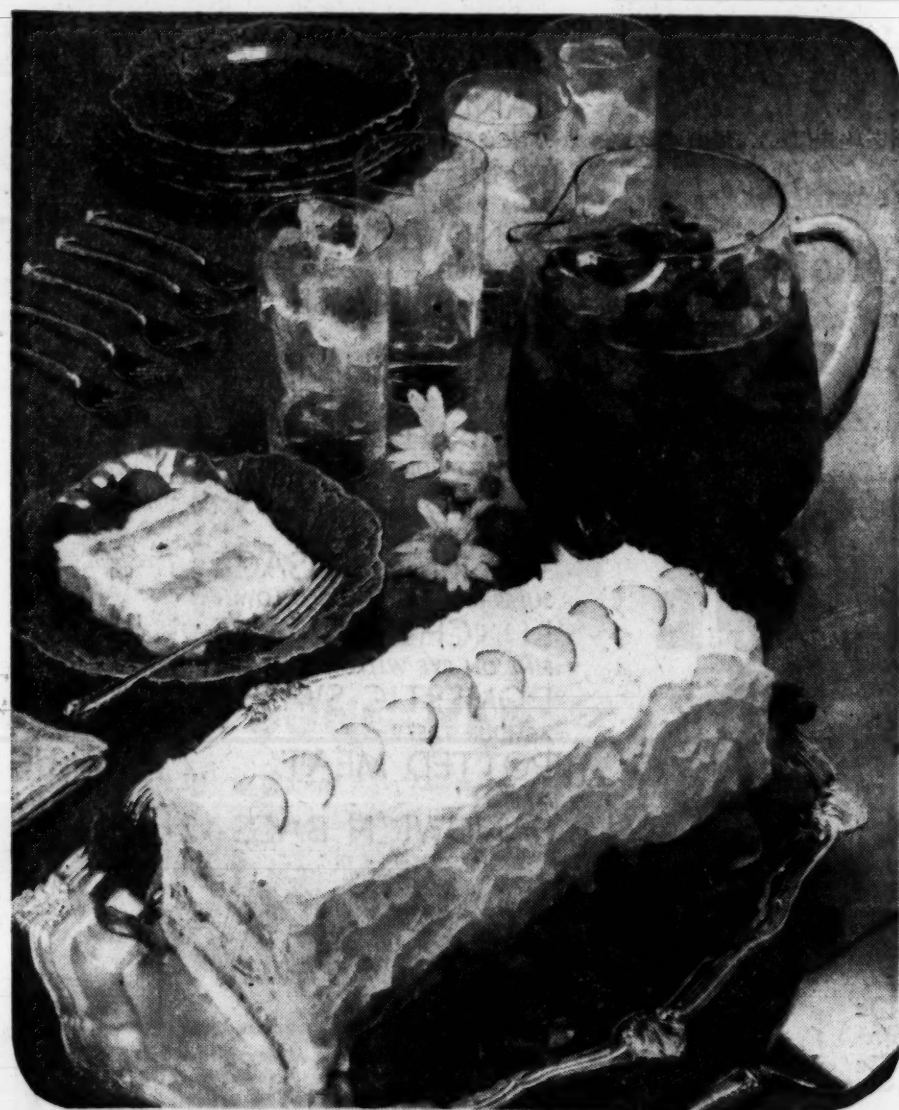

The reason? Butter...bright, golden flecks of it all through the glass. And what butter!

Unlike the kind in many brands, it's what dairymen call "92-score"—meaning just about tops in quality.

Yet for all its extra richness, Foremost Gold Nugget Buttermilk has only 132 calories per glass. (That's far less than regular milk!)

Try Foremost Gold Nugget—and soon. Until you do, you'll never know how good a buttermilk can be!

GOURMET SEAFOOD

For Those With a Yen for Fish

For those of you who dote on fine fare—food with a gourmet touch—yet without difficult preparation, here is a delicious main dish.

A special treat for a Friday night, it's also a perfect recipe for last-minute preparation. Pineapple tidbits and toasted almonds are added to grilled salmon steaks for a pleasing contrast. Round out the menu with parsley potato balls, a green vegetable and cole slaw. Pick out any favorite dessert.

PINEAPPLE GRILLED SALMON WITH ALMONDS

4 salmon steaks
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
3 tbsps. shortening

Roll salmon steaks in fine dry bread crumbs, season, and fry on both sides in hot shortening until brown and the fish flakes easily. While salmon is cooking, melt butter in a saucepan, add almonds and cook over low heat, stirring, until almonds are lightly toasted. Add pineapple tidbits and lemon juice and cook long enough to heat pineapple. Place salmon steaks on serving platter and arrange pineapple mixture in a row down the center. Serves four.

Here are more summer specialties for those meals to be headed by sea food.

STUFFED FLOUNDER FILLETS

1 lb. spinach
2 tbsps. fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1/2 lb. fish

Cook spinach. Drain well. Chop finely. Combine chopped spinach with bread crumbs, salt, pepper and mustard. Place a portion of spinach mixture on broad end of each fillet. Roll up and fasten with toothpick. Blend together fat and kitchen bouquet and brush over rolled fillets. Arrange fish on heat-proof serving platter. Combine contents of can of mushrooms and cornstarch in small saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Pour around fish rolls. Sprinkle rolls with onion and parsley. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, until fish flakes easily, about 30 minutes. Remove from oven, top fillets with sour cream. Place fish under broiler just long enough to brown slightly, about 5 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes four servings.

Hearty Ham Casserole

One-dish dinners are always popular, particularly in the latter summer months. This newly developed ham-fruit-vegetable casserole gets four stars for exciting flavor, economy, ease of preparation and eye appeal.

It blends cooked ham (or leftover ham) with rice, pineapple tidbits and asparagus in an especially appetizing way. For a buffet supper menu, add a crisp green salad and for dessert, balls of coffee ice cream, rolled in coconut, and served with fudge sauce.

FRUITED CASSEROLE

2 cups butter
1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups boiling water
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup drained pineapple tidbits
2 cups cooked, cubed ham
1 pound fresh or 1 package frozen asparagus pieces, cooked until barely tender

1 can cream of chicken soup
3/4 cup milk
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
Melt butter, add rice and cook over low heat, stirring, until rice is evenly toasted golden brown; add water and salt and continue cooking over low heat until rice is tender and water is absorbed. Place in a 3-quart casserole, arrange drained pineapple tidbits in an even layer, then a layer of cubed ham.

If using fresh asparagus, cut in 1-inch pieces. Arrange asparagus on top of ham. Stir cream of chicken soup until smooth, then add milk and blend. Pour over mixture in casserole, sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees.) for 40 to 50 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

Avocado, Sour Cream Topping Peps Up Soup

A blend of avocado and sour cream makes an elegant topping for tomato soup. Mash avocado with fork and combine with commercial sour cream and few drops lemon juice.

Spoon on top of hot tomato soup just before serving. Delicious on frozen shrimp soup, also.

Add Glaze to Meat

Put a beautiful glaze on baked ham or canned luncheon meat by basting with mixture of honey and apricot whole fruit nectar. Stud the meat with whole cloves and spoon the nectar-honey glaze over meat frequently as it bakes.

MOCK BANANA SPLIT
Made With Gelatin

Mock Banana Split Low in Calories

It is truly a delight for dieters when they can have a dessert like this with only 50 calories as compared with the far greater number in a regular banana split.

Teenagers who are watching their waistline will be happy to know about this mock banana split made with low-calorie orange flavored gelatin, topped with a low-calorie whipped topping made with nonfat dry milk.

MOCK BANANA SPLIT

1 envelope low-calorie orange-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
2 bananas

Dissolve low-calorie gelatin in hot water. Chill until slightly thickened. Place bowl in larger bowl of ice and water. Whip with egg beater until fluffy and thick. Chill until firm. When ready to serve, cut bananas in half; cut again lengthwise. Arrange two banana quarters in each serving dish. Using an ice cream scoop, place scoops of whipped mixture on banana quarters. Serve with whipped topping, if desired. Makes 4 servings. About 50 calories per serving.

LOW-CALORIE WHIPPED TOPPING

1 1/2 tbsps. water
Non-calorie sweetener (to equal 2 teaspoons sugar)

3/4 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 tbsps. instant non-fat dry milk
Measure water, sweetener, lemon juice and vanilla into small deep bowl. Sprinkle in dry milk powder. Beat until consistency of stiff whipped cream. Use to garnish desserts. (May be used in pastry bag or tube for making borders and rosettes.) Makes about 1/2 cup topping. About 43 calories per 1/2 cup.

Frothy Dessert From Pineapple

This cool pineapple-orange combination will be a frothy complement to pretty dessert dishes: Chill a can of pineapple chunks thoroughly, open can and drain. Place a serving of the chunks in sherbet glasses and spoon 2 to 3 table-spoons barely thawed, undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate over each serving. Sprinkle with chopped salted almonds. Serves 4.

Chocolate Raisin Brownies Extra Easy on the Cook

Brownies are everybody's favorite cookie. Cooks love them because they're so quick to make—no rolling and cutting, or even dropping, one by one.

Just spread chocolate raisin brownies in a square pan and bake them all at once. Plump light or dark raisins make these especially good. Serve with peppermint ice cream for a special treat.

CHOCOLATE RAISIN BROWNIES

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup light or dark raisins
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sifted all-purpose flour Rinse and drain raisins. Cut chocolate fine and combine with butter. Melt over hot water. Remove from heat and stir in sugar, salt, vanilla and well-beaten eggs. Fold in flour and raisins. Pour into shallow greased pan (about 8 or 9 inches square). Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, cut into strips and dust with powdered sugar, if desired. Makes 32 strips.

Savory Soup Stock

Use the water left from snap beans and other mild cooked vegetables in a stew. Just substitute it for the water called for in the recipe.

SHRIMP SALAD
With Macaroni

Shrimp, Macaroni in Summer Style

Fresh onion flavor and crispness can be flicked out of a jar.

Instant minced onion has made its debut on spice shelves.

To produce the effect of finely minced fresh onions, you can use it in two ways. Sprinkled into food "as is," just as you would salt, it immediately adds the exhilarating flavor of fresh onions. Or, when you're preparing a recipe which specifies minced raw onion in the finished dish, you can reconstitute instant minced onion in a small amount of water and "in an instant" you have finely diced onion, pearly white and crisp.

Essentially, instant minced is a form of onion seasoning between onion powder and onion flakes. The seasoning manufacturers recognize that neither the powder nor the large flakes quite filled the bill for the increasing number of convenience cookery recipes calling for minced onion. The powder added flavor but not texture.

The large flakes had to be crumbled to smaller bits to approximate a fine mince. So the seasoning designers evolved this new type that is custom-tailored in both size and flavor.

MACARONI AND SHRIMP SALAD

2 cups cold, cooked elbow macaroni
2 tbsps. instant minced onion
1 tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. ground black pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. powdered dry mustard
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salad oil
1 tbsps. cider vinegar
4-oz. can deviled shrimp, diced
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped celery
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped green pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup diced red pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup mayonnaise

Green pepper rings for garnish
Lettuce
Combine first seven ingredients. Toss lightly to blend.

Cover and marinate two to three hours in refrigerator. Just before serving blend in next five ingredients. Garnish with green pepper rings. Serve on lettuce. Makes six servings.

GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE

2 10½-oz. packages frozen green beans
 $\frac{1}{4}$ can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 tbsps. instant minced onion
1 tbsps. chopped pimiento
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. ground black pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook beans according to package directions. Drain, if necessary. Add next five ingredients and toss lightly to blend. Turn into a one-quart casserole. Top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a preheated moderate

 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped celery
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped green pepper
4 tbsps. instant minced onion
1 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. ground black pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Spread between slices of buttered bread. Makes 1½ cups filling or sufficient filling for five to six sandwiches.

MEAT BALLS ON RICE

1 lb. ground lean beef
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tbsps. instant minced onion
1 egg
1 tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. ground black pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup grated carrot
2 tbsps. shortening
8-oz. can Spanish type tomato sauce
3-oz. can sliced mushrooms, not drained

3 cups cooked rice
Combine first seven ingredients. Mix well. Shape into 1½-inch balls. Brown on all sides in hot shortening. Drain off excess fat. Add tomato sauce and mushrooms, juice and all. Cover and simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Serve over hot cooked rice. Six servings.

STOCK CUPBOARD FOR EVER-READY SANDWICHES
Canned Meat is Chilled and Sliced for Quick Snacks

Stock Cupboard for Easy Cooking

Summer days are too precious to waste in the kitchen. That's why we suggest a well-stocked cupboard and refrigerator to eliminate preliminary planning and preparation of meals for those warm evenings.

It is important to provide nutritious, satisfying meals high in protein, but low in heat-producing fat for summertime. An assortment of the convenient canned meats like chopped ham, chopped beef, Vienna sausage, corned beef and the many meat spreads that come in glass jars provide both the nutrition and the speed and ease that spell cool, quick meals. And the budget isn't strained either, for all these products are modest in cost and have no waste at all.

Chilled, sliced and served with refreshing jellied fruit salads or tossed green salads, canned meats provide pretty and flavorful cold trays at a moment's notice. Cubed and blended with cooked macaroni, crisp celery and mayonnaise they provide main dish salads which need only potato chips and a pitcher of iced tea or coffee to complete the menu.

Finely chopped canned luncheon meats or the meat spreads are a good basis for whole meal sandwiches, too. Ham salad sandwiches, corned beef and cole slaw sandwiches, or hot liver and bacon spread sandwiches are filling enough for any main meal.

One of our favorite combinations that is pretty enough for any guest luncheon or supper combines chilled slices of chopped ham put together with horseradish, seasoned cream cheese with salads made of circles of avocado filled with colorful melon balls, fresh or frozen.

Any of these cool, quick meals require no previous planning for they are made of the ingredients that can be on hand in every home, whether it's a city apartment or a lake cottage. Stock your cupboard well with the wonderful array of canned meats available at your market and be ready for any and all occasions.

MEAT SANDWICHES
Cut contents of 1 tin of chopped ham into 12 thin slices. Put together like sandwiches with 1 package of cream cheese that has been softened with 1 tablespoon drained horseradish. Serve on chop plate with avocado rings and melon ball salad. Garnish with endive, watercress or other greens.

To make salads: Cut around avocado to form rings. Separate from seed and dip rings in lemon juice. Fill with balls cut from cantaloupe and honeydew melons. Serve on watercress with a tart French dressing. Rolls and hot coffee complete the menu.

Minced Onions Make Cooking Pleasant

Eliminate the unpleasantness of peeling and chopping raw onion by using new instant minced onion. It is simple and quick to add onion seasoning with this moisture-free onion. Use instant minced onion as it comes from the jar or foil packet, or spoon into an equal measure of water to become like freshly-minced onion in no time.

Chocolate Ice-Box Crisps Good to Fill Cookie Jar

Chocolate refrigerator crisps are an inspiration towards keeping your cookie jar full. They are rich and crisp; dark and very chocolatey. The recipe makes a lot, about 7 dozen small cookies, but they go awfully fast. Good keepers, though, if they have a chance to show what they can do on this score.

Golden walnuts play the leading roll in giving this refrigerator cookie superb flavor and good eating. This firm-textured nut bakes to a toasted goodness that's enjoyed at every bite.

Let "chocolate refrigerator crisps" make their contribution to your lunch boxes, gift boxes, and in-between meal snacks. Just wait until you try them.

Spicy Potatoes

Here's a tip for whipped potatoes that makes this good old reliable dish taste even better. Sprinkle a dash of ground white pepper over the potatoes and taste the difference!

with a tall, cool glass of milk!

CHOCOLATE REFRIGERATOR CRISPS

1 cup walnuts
1 cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar (packed)
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
4 (1-ounce) squares unsweetened chocolate
2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. instant coffee powder

Chop walnuts coarsely. Cream shortening and sugar together thoroughly. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Melt chocolate over hot water, cool slightly and blend into creamed mixture. Sift remaining ingredients together, and blend into creamed mixture. Blend in walnuts. Shape into 3 rolls and wrap in waxed paper. Chill several hours or overnight. Cut

SHRIMP TOMATO TOWERS ARE COLORFUL

The Individual Salads Offer Easy Hot Weather Cooking
Into thin slices and place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Makes about 7 dozen small cookies.

Shrimp Tomato Towers Easy Summer Dish

Tempting in appearance and truly delicious, try frosty shrimp tomato towers for cool summery eating. This colorful salad combination, planned around quick-cook shrimp, promises to spark the most weary of summer-wilted appetites.

Everything can be prepared in the cool of morning and refrigerate it until eating time.

Easy to prepare is the Sauce Vinaigrette. Simply add the shrimp, toss well and cover for marination, then store away to chill with the plump tomatoes. At serving time, shrimp and sauce go between tomato slices, with a whole shrimp perched on top.

Serve the salad with a relish tray of other garden-fresh vegetables—carrots, radishes, cucumbers and green peppers, plus such favorites as olives, pickles and potato chips.

Add a crusty type bread or rolls and there you have it, a hot weather meal with fresh, wonderful flavor and bright colors all the way through.

SHRIMP TOMATO TOWERS
2 8-oz. pkgs. quick cook shrimp
4 tbsps. salad oil
2 tbsps. vinegar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. white pepper
2 tsp. dill seed
4 tomatoes

Boil quick-cook shrimp by package directions; drain and cool. Halve each lengthwise, reserving four whole for garnish. Make the Sauce Vinaigrette, combining oil, vinegar and seasonings in a shallow bowl. Add shrimp, toss well, cover and refrigerate. Let set at least two hours. Chill tomatoes. Cut each tomato crosswise into three slices. Sprinkle bottom slice with salt and pepper. Cover with shrimp pieces and drizzle on a bit of sauce. Add middle tomato slice, season and add shrimp and sauce. Put on top of tomato. A toothpick holds on a whole shrimp for garnish. Serve on bed of lettuce with extra shrimp around base, and with remaining sauce. Makes 4 generous main-meal servings.

Olive Oil Makes The Difference

The Spanish have been grilling, broiling and barbecuing meats and fish for thousands of years, and their classic method of preparation is to marinate beef, lamb or veal for at least 2 hours in a cup of olive oil, to which has been added the juice of two lemons, a crushed garlic clove, salt and pepper.

A quarter-cup of vinegar is sometimes substituted for the lemon juice, and, rosemary, crushed bay leaves or oregano are substituted for the garlic.

Menu Suggestion

Broiler dinner: chicken, tomato halves and halved cooked sweet potatoes.

A SALAD FOR PATIO OR INFORMAL SUPPER
Macaroni and Cheese, Carrots, Celery, Green Pepper and Onion

Try One of Many New Uses For Macaroni With Cheese

Have you ever thought of the many uses for a can of macaroni with cheese sauce? It's almost incredible that this little can of savory goodness can serve you so many ways.

Nearly all year 'round, it's a treat when heated through as part of the meal. For summertime, chill and use as a salad.

Yes, a can of macaroni with cheese sauce can do your work, and make up into one of summer's favorites. Blended with a few crisp ingredients several hours before mealtime, it means pleasurable eating.

Take summer macaroni to the patio or porch, seaside or wooded picnic area. Nice, too, on a tray. It's a meal in itself when served atop young garden greens. For added color, pass assorted baskets of crisp pickle slices, green onions, radish roses, spiced beet cubes or tomato wedges.

Cool sparkling citrus punch in tall glasses is a tasty go-with. For dessert try wafer-thin cookies with fresh fruit.

SUMMER MACARONI
1 can (15½ oz.) macaroni with cheese sauce
¾ cup shredded carrot
¾ cup chopped celery
¾ cup chopped green pepper
1 tbsp. minced onion
¼ tsp. salt
Dash black pepper

Blend macaroni with other ingredients. Blend well. Serve on crisp young salad greens. Make four servings.

LIME-MINT COOLER
With Pinwheel Cookies

Try Fragile Frappe of Fresh Lime

Lime frappe reminds you of sea breezes, a welcome thought these warm days.

White table wine gives the frozen dessert its soft, grapey flavor—delicate yet unmistakable—and so good served with cantaloupe or other fresh fruit.

A word of caution: the frappe is fragile and once removed from the refrigerator tray, must be served at once.

LIME FRAPPE
2 teaspoons plain gelatin
¾ cup lime or lemon juice
¾ cup boiling water
¾ cup sugar
1½ cups California white table wine
2 drops green food coloring
Cantaloupe or other fresh fruit
Soften gelatin in lime juice. Add boiling water; stir until gelatin dissolves. Mix in sugar, wine, and food coloring. Freeze until firm in refrigerator tray with control set at coldest temperature. Remove to chilled bowl; beat with rotary beater until fluffy. Return to refrigerator; freeze until solid—about 3 hours. Serve immediately after removing from refrigerator in sherbet dishes with balls of cantaloupe or other fresh fruit. Makes about 1 quart.

Fruit of All Kinds Make This Salad

Here's a picture-pretty salad to serve with a creamed chicken entree for a bride's luncheon or shower party.

Arrange a ring of fresh or canned pineapple on salad plate. Top with circle of delicate avocado and fill center with watermelon and cantaloupe balls. Add pineapple juice and drop of mint extract to mayonnaise for a delicious dressing.

Bread Sticks Make Late Snack

Always a favorite for the late evening snack is bread and cheese. Serve the pair as crisp cheese bread sticks.

Remove crusts from enriched bread slices and spread both sides of slices with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Sprinkle with grated American cheese. Cut slices into inch-wide strips. Toast on a cookie sheet in a moderate oven for 10 minutes, or until crisp.

LIVER KABOBS FOR AN EASY OVEN MEAL
Alternate Pieces on Skewer With Orange and Onion Slices

Liver Tasty Choice For Meal in Broiler

Don't overlook liver when searching for an easy broiler meal. Tender, delicious pieces of liver are quick cooking and ideally suited to speedy broiling. If skewer cookery has taken your fancy, zesty liver kabobs will be a welcome combination for you to try.

Liver may be purchased fresh at the meat counter or in the frozen food section of your store.

At home the fresh meat should be covered lightly and stored in the refrigerator for use within 24 hours. Before cooking, the outer skin or any white membrane can be removed easily with the aid of a sharp knife. The bright foil-wrapped packages of frozen liver slices may be stored up to six months at 0 degrees in your home freezer.

Liver and onions are a familiar combination. In this recipe for zesty kabobs, sliced oranges are added to give a new flavor twist.

ZESTY LIVER KABOBS

1 lb. beef liver, cut into ½-inch slices
2 medium onions, cut into ½-inch slices
2 oranges, peeled and cut into ½-inch slices ½ cup salad oil
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1 small clove garlic, mashed
1 tsp. finely chopped onion
½ tsp. salt

Cut liver into ½-inch squares. Thread liver, onions and oranges alternately on metal skewers. Combine salad oil, lemon juice, garlic, onion and salt. Pour over kabobs in shallow baking dish. Let stand 30 minutes, basting frequently. Broil slowly about 4 inches below the heat for 4 to 5 minutes on each side or until liver is cooked. Serve immediately.

LIVER TERRAPIN

1 lb. beef liver, cut into ½-inch slices
½ cup flour
½ cup fat
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
10½-oz. can condensed cream of chicken soup
1½ cup milk
1 hard-cooked egg
2 tbsps. chopped parsley

Cut liver into ½-inch strips. Dip into flour. Brown in melted fat in a large skillet. Season with salt and pepper. Add chicken soup blended with milk. Cover and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Cut eggs into quarters. Add eggs and parsley to the liver mixture. Cover and cook slowly 15 minutes.

A FRUITED EGGNOG DESIGNED FOR SUMMER
It's Flavored With Apricots and Topped With Sherbet

Apricot Eggnog Float A Treat for All Ages

Let it star at a midsummer open house, delight teens at an informal swing session, or fairly enchant the lively lollipop set on an important birthday. Any time you serve it, apricot eggnog will be pronounced sensational.

Eggnog is entirely too good and too good for us to be reserved solely for the holidays. Especially this recipe. Made tangy with apricot nectar and pineapple juice, it's enriched with milk and vitalized by a dash of rum extract.

The flavor result is most delicious, refreshing. And not at all rich. Pour it into a roomy punch bowl and top with scoops of palest green lime sherbet. Puffs of fluffy meringue (garnished with apricot flowers) also float airily about.

APRICOT EGGNOG FLOAT

4 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
2 cups apricot nectar
2 cups pineapple juice
1 qt. milk
1 tblsp. rum flavoring
4 egg whites
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
4 apricot halves
4 maraschino cherries
2-3 pts. lime sherbet

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Beat in sugar and salt. Add apricot nectar, pineapple juice, milk

Dumplings Made Quick and Easy

Even a short-order cook can prepare delicious chicken and dumplings this easy way: Open a can (16 ounces) boned chicken fricassee; heat until bubbling. Meanwhile, blend 1/2 cup packaged mix, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and 3 tablespoons milk.

Drop dough from a teaspoon into the hot fricassee. Cook, uncovered, for 10 minutes; then cover and cook another 10 minutes. Makes two to three servings.

Sardine Snack To Nibble On

When bedtime is just around the corner and you're more-than-usually hungry, fix a snack of sardines, sliced tomatoes, bits of cheese and some buttered pumpernickel bread.

Pie Decoration Made From Fruit Cocktail

A ring of gay canned fruit cocktail and ruffle of whipped cream adds a festive touch to a high and handsome lemon chiffon pie. Use the new packaged chiffon pie filling or your best recipe.

God's Pledge Will Stand

QUESTION: How can we know our sins are forgiven, if we do not feel that they are?—G. J.

ANSWER: It would be a terrible thing if our salvation depended on our feelings. Feelings have absolutely nothing to do with it. We know we are saved because of God's promise, which cannot be broken. As someone has said, "We have Christ's promise, the promise of a gentleman." The Bible tells us: "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." It does not promise that we will feel like we are saved, but it states a simple fact that we are saved when we fulfill God's conditions.

If you have repented of your sins, confessed them, turned from them and trusted in Jesus Christ as your Savior—then your sins are forgiven, regardless of your feelings. It is a dangerous thing to rely on one's emotions for there are so many factors which may influence the emotions which have nothing whatsoever to do with a spiritual experience. However, when you commit your heart and life completely to Christ as Savior and Lord, the Holy Spirit will give you the assurance of salvation in your heart.

Po' Boy Sandwich Good Variety

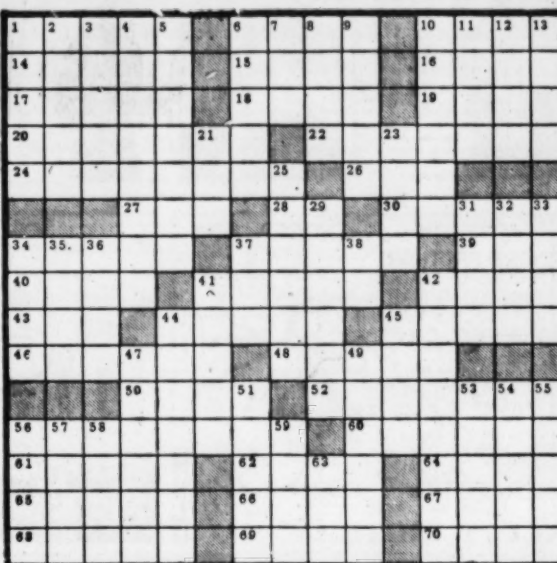

Here's a tempting combination for a "po' boy" sandwich. Split a 6-inch section of French bread lengthwise. On the lower half spread horseradish mustard. Cover with thin slices of dill pickle, roast beef, baked ham, salami and Swiss cheese.

Place under broiler until cheese melts. Toast inside of top section of bread, and cover fillings to close sandwich. Serve hot.

A Rhyme a Day

"Allow your pet (dog) all freedom possible. Life in crowded cities is unnatural for him, as it is for human beings, and he may develop peculiar mental quirks if too closely confined."
—Dog article quote.

A city is no place to raise . . . a dog that ought to spend his days . . . in chasing rabbits, treeing squirrels . . . or romping with the boys and girls . . . through field or wood or cotton-patch . . . where he has lots of room to scratch . . . or down on Old McDonald's farm . . . where he will do himself no harm.

He has small freedom in the town . . . for someone's car will run him down . . . or when he "bays the moon" at night . . . some neighbor wishes he could smite . . . him with a barrel stave or stone . . . or feed him with a poisoned bone.

He loses appetite for food . . . and after while begins to brood . . . then he needs a psychiatrist . . . to straighten out his mental twist . . . so he won't chew the "fatted calf" . . . of some poor postman who is half . . . devoured by "man's best friend" . . . who's always faithful to THAT end.

KEEP WELL

Questions and Answers

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN
J. P. writes: Why is there no uniformity in the treatment of hammer-toe? I know four girls with this defect who have had operations ranging from joint surgery to amputation of two toes. I have two deformed second toes myself and would like to do what is best.

REPLY: The type of treatment depends upon the nature of the defect. In general, straightening the toe surgically is preferred. Amputation may be easier but sometimes interferes with the dynamics of the foot and the alignment of the other toes.

F. W. writes: Because of corns and calluses I wear bedroom slippers most of the day. Is this bad for the arches?

REPLY: Yes. In addition, slippers do not constitute a good treatment for corns and calluses. Well-fitted shoes are better because they help eliminate pressure areas.

C. T. writes: Is intense itching of the breast a symptom of cancer?

REPLY: Not necessarily, unless itching stems from Paget's disease of the areolar region. There are other more likely skin eruptions of this area, such as eczema and scabies.

D. F. writes: Can arthritis occur in the ribs and chest?

REPLY: Yes, especially where the ribs connect with the breastbone and the vertebrae.

Mrs. W. writes: My mother has just been told by her doctor that she has osteoporosis, or weakness of the bones. What can you tell me about this condition?

REPLY: In older persons, osteoporosis is considered an aging process due to dwindling of the sex hormone secretions. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on osteoporosis, which gives additional information.

C. T. writes: What is wet therapy (whirlpool)? My husband is to get this for a broken leg.

REPLY: Hot water is forced into an oval tub, causing the water to circulate in whirlpool fashion. This affords a combination of massage and heat and promotes healing.

Mrs. E. writes: The doctor says my 4-month-old son has glaucoma, and that he probably was born with it. I thought this eye disease affected only the middle-aged.

REPLY: Glaucoma is more common in persons of middle-age and older but exceptions occur. A congenital form exists.

Mrs. J. writes: Does an infant urinate while asleep or only when awake? My baby is dry after six hours of sleep.

REPLY: Young infants may do both. Others are awakened by the act and cry because they are uncomfortable.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Letters should be addressed to Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, c/o The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta 2, Ga.

A Quick Banana Bread for Summer Snacks

What is summer's best asset? Something good to make ahead and count on for serving when the weather's hot. That's a perfect description of banana quick bread.

It is a delicate fruit bread, not heavy at all, with the wonderful tropical flavor of fully ripe bananas. Nutritionally, bananas are excellent with their vitamins, minerals and readily used food energy. Crusty brown outside, light and moist inside, banana bread stays fresh for as long as a week at room temperature, or in the refrigerator.

Serve banana bread, toasted, as a delicious breakfast treat. Toasting brings out the wonderful banana flavor. Serve a slice with iced coffee or tea when friends drop in for a chat.

Keep banana bread loosely wrapped in wax paper or aluminum foil. Wrap and seal loaves in aluminum foil or moisture-proof paper, and keep them in your freezer for handy serving. The bread keeps its flavor and fine texture for three to four months when frozen.

To defrost, unwrap the loaf completely, discard wrapping and let loaf stand at room temperature one to three hours before serving.

BANANA QUICK BREAD
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2¼ tsp. double-action baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
2 slightly beaten eggs
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (3 to 4)
Use fully ripe bananas, yellow peel flecked with brown.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt.

Place shortening in mixing bowl and beat until creamy and glossy, 300 strokes by hand or 2 minutes at medium speed on electric mixer. Gradually add sugar to shortening, beating until light and fluffy after each addition. Add eggs and beat until thick and pale lemon in color. Add flour mixture and bananas alternately, blending thoroughly after each addition. Grease bottom only (not sides) of a loaf pan. Turn batter into pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 60 to 70 minutes or until bread is done. Let bread partially cool in pan (20-30 minutes) before turning out onto rack.
